

Staff being encouraged to live healthy lifestyles

CONCERN OVER 'OBESE' NURSES

Report by Richard Guttridge

OBEISITY levels among nurses at a Dudley hospital need to be investigated, a top director has suggested.

Health bosses at Russells Hall Hospital have been advised to look at the issue of obesity among staff 'in a sensitive way'.

The comments were made by Richard Miner, a non-executive director at the Dudley Group NHS Trust, which runs Russells Hall, who pushed for action to ensure nurses were healthy.

It comes following research which found one in four nurses nationally were classed as obese.

Minutes of a board meeting in December recorded Mr Miner asking for health experts to keep on top of the issue.

A trust board report said: "Mr Miner, non-executive director, advised that he had raised the issue of obesity at a previous board and commented on the recently published research on obesity levels amongst nursing staff."

"He suggested that this may be something for the workforce committee to look at in a sensitive way."

"The Director of Human Resources confirmed that part of the new HR manager's portfolio is to look at health and wellbeing of staff."

Choices

A spokeswoman said hospital chiefs 'don't believe we have an obesity problem' but added staff are supported to 'make healthy choices'.

The spokeswoman said: "The trust proactively promotes healthy lifestyles and healthy eating among both our staff and patients."

"We support staff with a choice of healthy food options in the restaurants and by advertising the fresh fruit and veg stall at the entrance to Russells Hall Hospital. There is also a gym on site with reduced membership rates for staff alongside a number of other initiatives."

"We don't believe we have an obesity problem among nursing staff or any other particular staff group. However, we continue to support our staff to make healthy choices."

Research published last month found a quarter of NHS nurses are obese and that this could be contributing to high staff sickness levels and piling more pressure on the health service.

MOTHER GOOSE GONE ABSOLUTELY QUACKERS

A THEATRE group is giving a traditional tale an upbeat twist in its first production of the new year.

The Brierley Hill Musical Theatre Group is delivering its own special take on the popular pantomime story of Mother Goose with lots of songs and dance – and some performances already look likely to sell out.

Joanne Gresswell, head of the production team, said: "It is a fun-filled family pantomime, something for everybody, from children to parents, to grandparents."

"We have been in rehearsal since September. We have got younger people who are in our chorus and they have all been very dedicated."

The theatre group was performing the show last weekend, when one of the performances at Brierley Hill Civic Hall was sold out, but will be back at the venue for further shows today (Thursday), tomorrow and Saturday. Panto fans will get to see good overcoming evil with the Fairy of Happiness taking on the evil Demon Discontent.

Joanne added: "The show does have a bit of a twist with the moral of it being that beauty is skin deep."

Tickets can be bought by calling 0845 6588095 or at the theatre group's www.bhmte.co.uk website.

MURDER

Two charged over fatal stabbing of man

A 20-year-old man and a 17-year-old boy were due to appear at Wolverhampton Crown Court this week charged with murdering Jaskaran Kang, aged 24, in a flat above a shop in Dudley.

Reggie Salmon, of Stourbridge Road, Dudley, and the teenager from Newcastle-Under-Lyme – who cannot be named for legal reasons – have both been charged with murder.

Mr Kang was found fatally stabbed at a flat above the Mini Mart on January 6.

Both defendants were remanded in custody.

TRIBUTES

Football supporters mourn 'Big Cyrille'

TRIBUTES have poured in following the death of Baggies legend Cyrille Regis, a much-loved figure for football fans across the Midlands and the UK.

The former Albion, Coventry, Villa and Wolves player died on Sunday, aged 59, after a heart attack. Famous names from football and entertainment paid tribute to 'Big Cyrille', who was a role model for young footballers.

COURT

Megan case jury consider verdict

JURORS have been sent out to decide the fate of the defendant in the Megan Bills murder trial. Ashley Foster, 24, denies killing 17-year-old Megan, whose body was found in a clingfilm-wrapped wardrobe at a hostel in Highgate Road, Brierley Hill. The prosecution alleged Foster killed her in a sick sex game. He has pleaded not guilty.

Art Deco-style 1930s house for £450k

The house in Greyhound Lane

AN Art Deco-style house in Stourbridge that has been in the same family for more than 80 years has been put on the market for £450,000.

The property in Stourbridge boasts beautiful stained-glass windows, a circular tower frontage, a sweeping staircase and a large garden with a pond.

It was originally built by the Wassell family, who were notable for building many of the houses in Greyhound Lane.

But the Wassells eventually decided against living in the house themselves. It was then sold to the present owners parents' in 1937.

The property has been put on the market by Stourbridge-based estate agents Lex Allan. Stewart Allcock, director of sales, said: "It's really unique for us to have a property like this.

"It was their parents' house before them but it was originally built by two brothers. They decided not to live in it and it was bought by the current family and has been with them ever since.

"What is nice about it is that it has some lovely features.

"There is a bedroom upstairs called the round room and it has the original leaded windows.

"But in the hallway there is some lovely Art Deco stained-glass windows that echo sunbeams.

"We have had quite a bit of interest."

The advert states that it is a 'much loved and well cared for home', near shops, schools and Mary Stevens Park.

"Enjoying an elevated position set well back from the road side and with substantial rear gardens, the property offers ideal family accommodation and yet offers the potential to develop it further.

Thousands of jobs at risk after Carillion crash

A SHOCKWAVE was sent through the business community and political world when on Monday morning Wolverhampton-based construction giant Carillion went into compulsory liquidation.

Last ditch efforts over the weekend, involving talks between the company, its lenders and the Government, failed to secure a rescue deal.

The result is that a company with its roots in the Black Country going back more than a century will now be broken up.

Less than a year after announcing revenues of over £5 billion the company has crashed. The fate of its 19,500-strong UK workforce, including around 400 at its city centre headquarters on the Ring Road St Marks in Wolverhampton, hangs in the balance.

Contracts

Many will be hoping they can be switched to new companies that take over the scores of contracts the company has for work on road, rail and Government departments. There are fears that thousands face probable redundancy.

It is unclear what the immediate impact will be on projects such as the Midland Metropolitan Hospital at Smethwick, which Carillion has been building for Sandwell and West Birmingham Hospitals Trust.

Health chiefs have said the project is not at risk but the collapse of Carillion will almost certainly add to the year-long delays already affecting the work.

There was 'no comment' from scores of staff arriving for work at Carillion House in Wolverhampton today, but the shock on many faces was clear to some.

A few seemed close to tears at the news of the company's liquidation.

Carillion, which employs more than 40,000 worldwide, was created in 1999 out of the de-merger of the Tarmac Group.

Children's centre plan at former club

Application for children's centre at the former Bar Eleven, a landmark building on Stourbridge ring road

THE former Stourbridge Conservative Club building could be turned into a children's centre, under new proposals.

The building in New Road went under the hammer for £250,000 in 2016. Now plans submitted to Dudley Council include space for classes, learning support, a cafe, a beauty treatment area and offices.

After closure of the Conservative club in 2007, the landmark ring-road building became a target for vandals.

However, it was then brought back into use as a live music venue and recording studio called Moochers Jailhouse, which opened in 2012. It was taken over by Bar Eleven in 2014.

Councillor Nicolas Barlow, who represents the Wollaston and Stourbridge Town ward, said: "Anything that enhances an area and community has to be a positive.

"I think it sounds a really good idea. It has sadly been empty for some time, so for it to be brought back into use in the daytime will be really good. That area of Stourbridge has been a bit of a lost area."

Planning documents state: "Change of use of former nightclub and recording studio into mixed-use development for child development and learning support/therapy classes.

"The application form states that the proposed cafe is primarily aimed at providing a service for parents visiting the facility but is also open to the public."

Holocaust survivor is guest speaker at service

A WOMAN who survived Nazi terror as a child during the 1930s and 40s, will be visiting Dudley to speak at the town's annual Holocaust Memorial Service.

In October 1938 Nazis rampaged through Eve Kugler's family home and shop, destroying many of her family's possessions. The family, targeted because they were Jews, fled their home in Germany the following year and hid in France. When the Nazis invaded France, Eve and her sister Ruth managed to escape to life with foster parents in America. Many of her relatives died.

Eve will be talking to hundreds of students and Dudley residents about her experiences at the commemoration event, organised by Dudley North MP Ian Austin and Dudley College Students' Union and with the support of the Holocaust Educational Trust.

Two school students who visited Auschwitz – the concentration camp that was set up in Nazi-occupied Poland – as part of the trust's Lessons from Auschwitz programme will be taking part in the event. Religious leaders and Mayor of Dudley Councillor Dave Tyler will also take part. The event is open to everyone at Dudley College's Broadway Campus at 12.30pm on January 26.

Sleeping on the streets for charity

A SLEEP-OUT in aid of one of the Mayor of Dudley's charities is being held next month.

Mayor Councillor Dave Tyler is appealing for others to join him on the sleep-out on February 9.

A number of sites have been earmarked, including the Savoy Centre in Netherton.

The mayor will be visiting all of the sites during the night. The event has been organised in conjunction with YMCA Open Door.

Councillor Tyler said: "This is such an important issue which affects lots of people. This event is about not only highlighting the plight of some of these people who find themselves on the streets, but also the excellent work of people at the YMCA Open Door project."

Extra funds aim to ease the pressure on hospital

DUDLEY'S hospital trust has been given nearly £2 million of extra funding to help cope with winter pressures.

The investment in Russells Hall Hospital has been welcomed by Dudley South MP Mike Wood.

The Dudley Group NHS Foundation Trust has been granted an additional £1,998,000 to help as flu and other winter problems have put health services under great pressure.

Mr Wood said the extra funding granted to Russells Hall was the equivalent of funding 46 full-time nurse salaries for the year.

The Conservative MP said: "This is excellent news for Russells Hall patients and Dudley South residents.

Critical

"We all want to know the NHS is there for us and our families whenever we need it, so I'm pleased the Government is giving the NHS extra support at this critical time of year, when cold weather and flu can increase the pressures on hard-working hospital staff and services."

He continued: "It's thanks to our strong economy that we can make this extra investment in the NHS.

"Polls show that the NHS is the institution that makes us most proud to be British and my party will always back and fund it."

More time to have say on transit site

A PUBLIC consultation launched to determine residents' views on the development of a temporary travellers' transit site has been extended.

Launched in December the consultation was due to conclude on January 19 - but Dudley Council have pushed the deadline back to the final day of the month.

But the move to bring in a three-year temporary transit site in the borough has received strong backlash from ward councillors who say the preferred site, Budden Road in Coseley, is contaminated land.

Coseley East ward councillor Susan Ridney said: "If we're not prepared to even put a football pitch on there how can we put caravans with babies and children on there"

Shock for customers as travel firm closes

A TRAVEL company based in Stourbridge has unexpectedly closed and left its customers in the dark over pre-paid tickets.

Some have forked out hundreds of pounds to travel to London and Torquay this weekend.

Coach firm Group Travel Limited has closed its offices and customers have been unable to reach them by phone.

It comes after the company was set to be dissolved in December, only for a U-turn to be made the next day.

The tour operator was due to take passengers to the Royal Albert Hall in London tomorrow (Friday), with customers paying £165 for a ticket, and also to Torquay on Monday for a five-day break.

Catherine Wood, aged 81 from Brierley Hill, who was due to travel to London with her husband Raymond, 84, received a letter on Tuesday from the travel firm containing an 'urgent notice'.

The letter said: "We are sorry to advise you that your coach tour has been cancelled. We are currently taking legal advice from a licence insolvency practitioner and will send you a letter confirming our position in the next two weeks.

"Group Travel Ltd has ceased trading. You will be contacted in due course regarding the procedure for a refund. We apologise for any inconvenience caused."

Mrs Wood, who has used the company for years, said: "We are feeling upset and disappointed. We bought two tickets to go to the Royal Albert Hall to Cirque Du Soleil, stay there and come back on Saturday. In total we paid £342.20 for two tickets, which includes £12.20 for insurance."

Grandparents Barry and Dorothy Austin from Codsall were looking forward to a relaxing mid-week break at the Riviera Hotel in Torquay but they experienced problems trying to get in touch with Group Travel Ltd and were led to believe their holiday was cancelled.

Retired Mr Austin, 81, said: "We've booked with them before and we've never had any problems. We've just paid the balance, £319 for the two of us."

The company's office in Audnam was closed this Monday and the firm was unavailable for comment.

Accused claims Megan's death was an accident

A MURDER suspect told the truth when he insisted in a letter to his mother that the death of a teenage girl while they had sex was an accident, a jury heard.

Miss Jane Bickerstaff QC, defending Ashley Foster, told Wolverhampton Crown Court that he was contemplating suicide when he penned the note after his arrest following the discovery of the body of 17-year-old Megan Bills.

Her decomposing body was found in a cling-film wrapped wardrobe in his room at a hostel for former prisoners in Highgate Road, Brierley Hill.

The lawyer said: "It is likely to be truthful. He was clearing his conscience thinking he would never see his mother again."

Foster, aged 24, had been freed from jail three days earlier and had met Megan for the first time hours before they had sex on Easter Sunday last year, the court heard. He insisted in the letter: "She tells me she likes to be strangled so I obliged... she loved it...but then as I released her, her eyes closed." He maintained: "I didn't intend it to end like this. I didn't mean it."

Consensual

Miss Bickerstaff continued in her summing up: "It was consensual sex. Why on earth would he want to kill or harm her? This was two young people experimenting."

"She was a young woman living quite a dangerous lifestyle. The defendant asked if he could strangle her and she agreed. He was lost in his own sexual pleasure and it was only when he stopped that he realised something had gone disastrously wrong."

Mr Crispin Aylett QC, prosecuting, told the jury: "Foster has provided you with nothing more than lies, self pity and cowardice. The letter to his mother is not a truthful account but he does not have a better one. The truth is he murdered her."

"He was playing out his sexual fantasy and strangling her was part of that. He could have released his hold any time but just kept the pressure on until he had finished."

Megan's body had been hidden in the wardrobe for almost three weeks before it was discovered by hostel staff on May 4.

The jury were considering their verdict.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Mayor opens new charity café

THE Mayor of Dudley has toasted the opening of a new charity café in Stourbridge.

Councillor Dave Tyler officially opened the Dudley Mind Café, Food for Thought, in Victoria Street, Stourbridge. Dudley Mind is one of the mayor's chosen charities for the year.

He toured the facility, which offers refreshments and provides space for meetings and courses.

The borough's first citizen also chatted to staff about the charity's work.

Councillor Tyler said: "I urge everyone to pop along and enjoy some of the things they offer."

Company buy base in a £1.5m deal

MORE than 20 jobs have been secured after a removal firm bought its existing site in a £1.5 million deal.

Fox Moving & Storage has used a funding package from banking giant NatWest to buy the site on Mill Race Lane, Stourbridge, which the company has used since the branch opened in 1980. The agreement will help the family-run business move forward with plans to grow, while safeguarding 22 jobs. Paul Fox, managing director, said: "Stourbridge has always been an important strategic location for the business."

Manford gets in a muddle on tour

ONE of the nation's most popular comedians and is to bring his new tour to Dudley.

Mancunian funnyman Jason Manford will look to get the Black Country laughing when he brings his latest tour Muddle Class to Dudley Town Hall on April 27.

The 36-year-old comic is set to deliver a new set of material in a show that will explore his confusion at becoming 'middle class'.

Tickets to the event, which starts at 7.30pm, cost £30.80 and can be booked on (01384) 812812.

Hobson's Choice actors sought

AN amateur dramatic group is on the look out for actors for its next production. Wombourne Players also needs assistance with props for its production of the classic comedy Hobson's Choice by Harold Brighouse. The play is being staged in Wombourne Community Centre from May 16 to 19.

Director Richard Corser said: "We are short of three male actors for roles in the play - a foreman bootmaker ideally age range 40 to 60 and two younger actors."

Anyone interested in acting should e-mail info@wombourneplayers.org.uk or they can 'like' the Facebook page and message the group directly.

England stars back good cause

ENGLAND stars Daniel Sturridge and Rio Ferdinand backed a charity event in memory of a promising student who died in a crash on the M6.

More than £2,000 was raised at an event at Villa Park recently for the D.E.M.I Trust, set up by family members of Demi Nicholson, aged 21, who was killed on the M6 near Wednesbury last year.

Liverpool and England striker Daniel Sturridge, who is from Birmingham, sent a Liverpool shirt, while his family members attended. A champagne three-course meal for two was also donated by the restaurant of Rio Ferdinand, formerly of Man Utd.

College launches training scheme

A NEW management training scheme for graduates has been launched by City of Wolverhampton College.

For more information or to apply for the graduate scheme go to www.wolvcoll.ac.uk/graduate-programme/ or call 01902 836000.

Drag queen TV star in one-woman show

A DRAG queen is set to bring her one-woman show to Birmingham. D.J. Pierce, better known by stage name Shangela, competed on season two of RuPaul's Drag Race but was sadly the first queen to be eliminated.

The star was brought back for season three to compete alongside the likes of Raja, Yara Sophia, Alexis Mateo and Manila Luzon. Shangela appears at the Glee Club on April 10.

Storage plan at former steel site

A FORMER landmark industrial site near Merry Hill shopping centre could be demolished to make way for a storage base.

The Sun Works plant would be taken over by the self-storage company Safestore Holdings to create units to rent for individuals and companies. The site has been derelict since steel firm Bird Stevens went into administration in March 2016.

There are a total of 16 buildings on site that were used for the manufacture and fabrication of metalwork together with materials storage, loading areas and car parking.

Councillor Jackie Cowell, who represents the Quarry Bank and Dudley Wood wards, said that she would welcome something 'constructive' being done with the site.

"I have seen a document put forward for the plans, which is good because it has been a considerable amount of time that the site has stood empty now."

"Derelict buildings and sites like this do not much for the environment or the local businesses and if it can be turned to better use instead of sitting there then that is something we would welcome."

"It may also bring more people to the area, which is a plus. We will see how it goes at committee, but it seems to be a constructive idea."

The plant was built on Sun Street in 1913. The company operated traditional metal manufacturing processes including press work, welding, galvanising, fabrication and tube forming.

Plans were registered with Dudley Council on January 3. A decision is expected soon.

Black Country car cruise ban extended until 2021

By David Cosgrove

AN INJUNCTION banning car cruising in the Black Country has been extended for a further three years by the High Court.

The court order stops people from taking part in a car cruise anywhere within Wolverhampton, Dudley, Sandwell and Walsall - or promoting, organising or publicising any such event in those areas.

Since it was introduced in 2015, 17 people have been convicted of breaching the injunction, either by taking part in or organising a car cruise, and have received suspended prison sentences, been fined up to £1,000 and ordered to pay court costs.

The four Black Country boroughs, led by Wolverhampton Council and West Midlands Police, successfully sought a continuation of the injunction until February 1, 2021, at the Birmingham District Registry of the High Court yesterday.

His Honour Judge McKenna, sitting as a High Court judge, said: "The measures are reasonable and proportionate and I am content to extend the order for another three years."

Dangerous

Councillor Paul Sweet, Wolverhampton Council's cabinet member for health and wellbeing, said: "Car cruising is noisy, dangerous and illegal, causing damage to property and posing a risk of injury - or worse - to participants and the general public alike. It also takes up a lot of valuable time for our hard-pressed emergency services."

"Since its introduction in 2015, the injunction has helped to dramatically reduce the menace of car cruising across the Black Country, eliminating it altogether in certain areas. However, the problem has not been entirely eradicated."

Museum focus on photo competition

Sheila Chamberlain-Hyett and Edward Miller provide photographic inspiration at the Black Country Living Museum

GRAB a camera and get snappy as the Black Country Living Museum is set to stage a special photography exhibition later this year.

It comes as part of the attraction's 40th anniversary celebrations. It is inviting people to submit four new and archive photographs on the theme of Reclaiming Our Industrial Might.

The deadline for entries is February 23 and a selection of the images will be on display at the museum in Tipton Road for its Industrial Might weekend on May 19 and 20.

Submissions need to feature the Black Country's industrial heritage including forges, boilers collieries and factories. Portraits, architectural shots and present day street photographs are also welcomed, but images taken at the museum cannot be included. Digital photographs can also be submitted.

People whose photos are chosen will be contacted within eight weeks of the closing date.

During the Industrial Might weekend, visitors can discover the awe-inspiring industry of the Black Country and it will be jam-packed with live demonstrations and fun for all ages. To submit photographs go to reclaim-photographyfestival.org

Loose nut is costly error for garage after blaze

AN MOT centre and its directors have been handed a court bill of almost £5,000 after a vehicle that had been serviced caught fire on an M42 slip road.

Jennings MOT Centre Ltd, in Simms Lane, Netherton, carried out a service to the rear brakes and bearings of the Fiat 130 motorhome.

The vehicle was being driven on the M42 when the driver experienced problems and stopped on the slip road. Minutes later the rear left wheel became detached from the vehicle and the motorhome caught fire.

The fire service was called and had to partially close the motorway. They concluded that the cause of the fire was friction and heat build-up in the wheel or brakes.

The motorhome was examined by an independent vehicle examiner who found that the left rear wheel hub nut hadn't been secured properly, causing the bearing to become loose and over-heat, causing the fire and the loss of the wheel, 'a result of poor workmanship by the repairer'.

Trading standards team led the prosecution at Dudley Magistrates. The company and its two directors, Taseem Farooq and Waqar Farooq pleaded guilty to offences under the Road Traffic Act 1988 and The Consumer Protection from Unfair Trading Regulations 2008.

The company was fined a total of £2,000 and ordered to pay £520 costs and a £220 victim surcharge. The two directors were fined £500 each, and both were ordered to pay £520 costs and £50 victim surcharge. Magistrates said that the failure could have had far more serious consequences.

Four in court over car fall death

FOUR people have appeared in court over the death of a woman who fell from the bonnet of a car in a supermarket car park. Ellie Underhill, 20, died a week after suffering head injuries at Tesco Extra, on Birmingham Road, Dudley, on Boxing Day 2016.

Luke Hickman, 19, of Wassell Road, Wollescote, is accused of unlawfully killing her. He appeared before magistrates in Walsall last week charged with manslaughter.

Ross Bingham, 20, of Hagley Road, Edgbaston; Elly Phillips, 19, of Seymour Road, Wollescote; and Hana Edwards, 18, of Grove Road, Wollescote; are charged with conspiracy to pervert the course of justice. No pleas have been entered. They were given bail. They must appear at Wolverhampton Crown Court on February 7.

Public split over new homes for Green Belt

A NEW poll has found support for new housing being built in the West Midlands' Green Belt.

With Birmingham needing to deliver more than 80,000 new homes by 2031, and with both the Government and local authorities facing increasing pressure to release land for new homes, almost one in two people would support such development.

The survey of 1,000 people, conducted by independent national polling company Censuswide and commissioned by Snapdragon Consulting, saw 49.1 per cent of respondents in the West Midlands saying they would support building on Green Belt land to meet demand for new homes, compared to 52.3 per cent nationally.

The figure grew to 74.1 per cent when people were asked if they would support development on a previously developed Green Belt site, which could include agricultural buildings, warehouses, car parking or airstrips.

Land designated as Green Belt is currently granted protection, from new development to prevent urban sprawl around cities across the country. With large swathes of land around Birmingham designated as Green Belt, much of the region is currently out of bounds for developers. Support for Green Belt development is strongest amongst 16 to 24-year-olds, who are struggling with affordability and availability of housing.

Dementia friendly cinema proposed

A COMMUNITY group is to discuss the creation of a 'dementia-friendly' cinema.

The East Coseley Big Local group will join forces with the Black Country Touring and the Alzheimer's Society to consider the pros and cons of a community cinema designed for people with dementia in Coseley on Monday, from 10am to 1pm at The Apple Tree Inn in Bilston.

A previously meeting was postponed due to snow.

According to the East Coseley Big Local group a dementia-friendly cinema would provide a safe and welcoming environment for people, families and carers living with dementia. Visit www.eastcoseleybiglocal.net/lets-start-a-dementia-cinema-in-coseley

Kitchen rescue

AN ELDERLY man was led to safety by firefighters when smoke filled his kitchen after cooking was left unattended. The incident happened at The Promenade, Brierley Hill, on January 10 just after 5.30pm.

Ironmaster's old home to be demolished

Hatherton Lodge will be bulldozed

THE former home of a man credited with bringing chain-making to the West Midlands will be bulldozed to make way for new homes – despite calls from heritage campaigners to save the property in Cradley.

Hatherton Lodge, once owned by Noah Hingley, will be pulled down to make way for seven new houses following a decision by Dudley Council's planning committee. It comes despite 97 objections made against the plans. Campaigners who fought to save the building near Drews Holloway said the decision was disappointing.

Dudley Council said all options had been explored to try to save the building, which is now in a derelict state.

Mr Hingley, who lived in the house during the 19th century, owned Netherton-based ironworks N Hingley & Sons which made the anchor for the Titanic.

At the planning meeting, chairman Councillor Andrea Goddard initially recommended a site visit but committee members felt it would take too much time and money to bring the house back from its current poor state. It has been empty for years.

Councillor Khurshid Ahmed said: "It is a great shame the house has been allowed to deteriorate."

Council officer Helen Yorke said: "Every single avenue has been explored to save the property."

The committee voted against a site visit before voting in favour of demolition.

James Warwick, who founded Facebook group Save Hatherton Lodge which had around 470 members, thanked those people for their support and said: "The decision is disappointing."

Mother to marry jailed American murderer

A 33-year-old mother from Stourbridge who fell in love with her American prison pen pal is set to marry him – despite the fact that he may never be released.

Emma Pickett began writing to Justin Erskine last year after coming across his profile online and says he is the love of her life.

Erskine is serving a life sentence for first-degree murder without chance of parole. He was jailed for his role in the June 2006 killing of two men.

Erskine was found guilty of first-degree murder after being accused of giving a butterfly knife to a friend, who committed the killings. He then helped to bury the bodies in Maryland, according to reports.

Ms Pickett said she initially struck up a friendship with the murderer, who is being held in Delaware, as the pair bonded over poetry, books and music. But she soon found herself falling for the convicted criminal and the pair declared their love for another within weeks. She now plans to marry the lifer, aged 30.

Children

The mother of three hopes to move to the States along with her young children, who she says have a great relationship with the convict, who has no children himself.

She first flew out to visit him in September, when the couple shared their first kiss.

Care home worker Emma – who has been married once before – is in close contact with Erskine's family. The couple hope to get married later this year.

She said: "Writing to a prisoner was something I had seen other people do. I had friends that had done it."

"There is a stigma attached to it. But it is not the case that everybody in prison is automatically a terrible person.

"I was looking through profiles but nobody was really jumping out to me. But then I came across Justin's page. He liked poetry and books and I liked the look of him."

"I wrote my first letter in April 2017. I wasn't really expecting to hear back from him. But he wrote back and it turned out we had so much in common."

Thousands of miles and prison walls didn't stop romance between Emma Pickett and Justin Erskine

"By the beginning of July we both started to realise that there was a bit more between us."

"We actually had both written a letter to say we loved the other and they were both in the post at the same time."

"We spoke for the first time on the phone on July 16. I was so nervous. But as soon as I heard his voice all my anxieties disappeared. There is a sense of familiarity with him."

"Now we talk on the phone all the time. I have been over to visit him twice now. We kissed for the first time and it was so special. He exceeded my expectations and meeting him confirmed all my feelings. He is the love of my life and when he asked me to marry him, of course, I said yes."

Ms Pickett has now joined Erskine's family in attempting to fight his conviction, claiming he was coerced by others.

FOLK can learn a traditional country craft in Dudley next month.

Friends of Wrens Nest National Nature Reserve are organising a hedge-laying event at the beauty spot.

There will be tuition from the Dudley reserve's wardens on Saturday, February 20, from 10.30am to 12.30pm.

Places are limited on this one-day course and for the over-16s only.

Contact the wardens on 07854 539411 to reserve a place.

More than 20 people have taken part in previous years.

Have Faith in tribute to George

TICKETS for a George Michael tribute show at Dudley Town Hall have gone on sale. Faith – The George Michael Legacy will be at the venue on March 3 at 7.30pm.

It is billed as a musical journey through more than 30 years of hits, from Wham to the late singer's solo career and uses actual video footage from the George Michael 25 Live tour.

The audience can expect to hear songs such as Club Tropicana, I'm Your Man, Faith, Careless Whisper and Freedom. Tickets cost £21.50. To book call 01384 812812.

Richardsons in joint warehouse venture

DEVELOPERS the Richardson family have taken on two new industrial warehouse schemes.

Oldbury-based Richardsons, which developed the Merry Hill complex, has formed a joint venture with Warwickshire's St Francis Group. One of the projects is Velocity 42, a 20-acre site at Park Farm Industrial Estate, Redditch. The other is Cranley Park, a business park in Kettering. Work is expected to start this spring.

IN MY VIEW

with Mark Andrews

Can I help you? Yes I'm being robbed . . .

FOR those of you who thought the thin blue line had been getting a little too thin for comfort lately, here's something to gladden the heart.

Police in Lancashire say that by the end of the year people could soon have their own virtual bobby in the home.

The gadgets will not only make regular announcements about crime-fighting operations – which I am sure will never become irritating – they will also allow people to report crimes via voice-activated technology. Which means they can employ fewer call-handlers. Yippee.

Have the brains behind this ever used a voice-activated service? My credit card provider has just switched to one for bill payments, and let's say the results have been mixed. A call that previously took a couple of minutes "press two to pay your bill, enter your debit card number" ended up taking a quarter of an hour and four separate calls, probably in part because I don't speak hologram fluently.

Can you imagine how this might work in an emergency?

"Help, I'm being robbed!"
"Hello Rob, how may I help you?"
"A robber has a knife to my throat!"
"Yes, Rob, your wife is allowed to vote. Say 'yes' if you would like another service, if not, say 'I am done'."

At this rate, we're all well and truly done.

ALSO facing a shortage of personnel is the British Army, which has also reverted to, shall we say, unconventional means, to fill the gap.

It's strange, because it only seems like a couple of years ago that the Army was making thousands of experienced, battle-hardened soldiers redundant, closing down the Staffordshire Regiment.

Anyway, the corporate whizzkids have decided that the old "Be the Best" recruitment slogan was outdated and elitist. Can't discriminate against people who don't want to be the best, can we?

As a replacement, the Army has come up with some soppy online videos that look a bit like the opening credits for the Generation Game during Bruce's second stint, circa 1990. They encourage would-be recruits to talk about their feelings, and say it's all right to cry if you're upset.

Brilliant. So next time the Argentinians, Putin, Isis, or whoever our enemies are these days decide they want another war, and deploy a load of hard nuts to blow our heads off, we retaliate with a group of people in touch with their emotional side.

They'll probably use It Ain't Half Hot Mum as a training video.

Gear up and sort out these tyre-bursting roads

Theresa May – the recent reshuffle was underwhelming but made a point

Tony Blair – a number of words sprang to mind, 'clever' was never one of them

Keir Starmer – looking anxious following announcement of rapist release?

Drivers in a hole as planning falls short

I CANNOT recall such a vicious crop of tyre-bursting, wheel-bending, suspension-cracking potholes on our roads as we have now. It must have something to do with hard frosts followed by heavy rain, plus the fact that no-one in authority ever seems to expect such weather in a British winter, let alone plan for it.

OUR changing language. Yes, I know it's a real word but I'd never heard it before. The God-botherer on Thought for the Day (Radio 4) referred to the faith of those who believe the end of the world is nigh. It is called Apocalypticism. Now, there's a real denture tester.

A READER who believes Brexit will never happen writes: "Brexit is merely a bar-room drunk's xenophobic fantasy . . . Remainers will prevail because we have common sense, truth, peace, patriotism and the social good as our arguments." And humility. Don't forget the humility.

THE anti-Brexit movement, led by Lord Adonis, Gina Miller, Tony Blair and the others, is based on the unspoken, but heavily implied, belief that these people are much cleverer than the rest of us. I cannot speak for them all but I have interviewed Tony Blair several times. Although a number of words sprang to mind, "clever" was never one of them.

BY the end of this year, smacking children will probably be illegal in Wales and Scotland. This offers some interesting business opportunities on England's western and northern borders. I foresee a string of cosy little franchises (Slippers-R-Us?) where Scots and Welsh parents can bring their errant offspring for a taste of traditional discipline and regale them with stories of how "we all got it in the old days and it never did me any harm."

MORE to the point, when slapping is banned across the UK, as it surely will be, what happens next? The approved alternatives to smacking, as preached by the great and good, are confining a child to its bedroom or confiscating its favourite toy. Or to put it another way, imprisonment without trial, and theft. One for the human-rights lawyers.

AFTER my recent item on prostate examinations, a reader tells me of a GP who uses two fingers, in case he needs a second opinion.

A COMEDIAN in the 1980s announced details of Margaret Thatcher's latest cabinet reshuffle. Apparently, Thatcher had moved the blue Wedgwood pot behind the little china dog. The recent reshuffle by Theresa May was just as underwhelming and didn't even have a punchline. But it did make the point, as May sacked middle-aged ministers for being "male, pale and stale," as the BBC put it, that it is perfectly possible in these enlightened times to be sacked for being the wrong gender, colour or age.

SOME of the victims of the black-cab rapist John Worboys are demanding that when he is freed from prison he should be excluded from London. And if the worst happened and Worboys struck again in the provinces, who would explain to the victims in Wales, Whitby or Wolverhampton that a rapist was unleashed in their midst to make London safer?

WHY was the normally cool Labour front-bencher Keir Starmer so agitated and anxious in his interview following the announcement that Worboys was due for release? Starmer's only involvement with the case is that at the time, nine years ago, he was Director of Public Prosecutions when it was decided to charge Worboys with only a dozen offences. His lawyers probably took the view that adding many more similar cases to the charge sheet would not result in a longer prison sentence. So it was a pragmatic, logical decision. The snag for Starmer is that in the intervening nine years sex offences against women have become centre-stage. Logic is not what it was. We now have a febrile culture in which a single ill-judged email or a wandering male hand 10 years ago is enough to end a political career. Starmer knows that he will survive the current scandal, so long as nothing more happens. But what if Worboys is released and offends again? In the present climate, illogical and unfair though it may seem, Keir Starmer could find his head on the block. No wonder he looked worried.

TALKING POINT

Weathering storm of American influence

POLITICIANS love to tell us that Britain has a special relationship with the United States – and it seems that includes the weather.

Avid watchers of weather forecasts will be well aware that storms these days are given human names, apparently to raise awareness so that people can take urgent action and batten down the hatches as severe winds and rain approach.

The Met Office, in conjunction with Ireland's Met Éireann, announced the storm names for the 2017-18 season in September, and already we've had Aileen, Brian, Caroline, Dylan and Eleanor.

In anticipation of a particularly bad season, a number of names have been chosen in alphabetical order. So far, so good, but a graphic on the Met Office website illustrates some glaring omissions in the naming process – which is where the American influence comes in.

Instead of using all 26 letters of the alphabet, Q, U, X, Y and Z have not been allocated a name. At first glance, it's easy to assume the Met Office had difficulty in choosing names for those five letters.

However, the actual reason they are not included is – and I quote the Met Office's small print – "this ensures we are in line with the US National Hurricane Centre naming convention and will maintain consistency for official storm naming in the North Atlantic".

So there we are. Our storm-naming system is at the mercy of American weather experts.

Maybe a campaign could be started to have those five lonely letters included after all. In true British spirit, the Talking Point team set about thinking up how to fill the gaps.

We came up with Quentin, Una, Xavier, Yul and Zach, and we'd like to think they are more sensible than some of the suggestions submitted to the Met Office.

How seriously could you take the news that Storm Gnasher was on the way? Or how about Baldrick, NastyBoy, Skylab, Stomp, Swoosh or Twizzle? Not surprisingly, the names of retailers such as B&Q and Asda were also excluded.

Looking back, the 2016-17 season saw five storms named, from Angus to Ewan. In the previous season, 11 were named, from Abigail to Katie.

Obviously, no-one can tell how many names will be needed this season – as few as possible, if we are lucky.

So despite the Americans taking over in this instance, perhaps we should be hoping that we don't get as far as those missing letters.

Winter ban on non-emergency ops to help

THE hospital crisis this year is worse than last year which was worse than the year before, and so on.

To ease the problem all non-emergency operations have been cancelled.

That means that there are people that have geared themselves up and made arrangements for the operation date that will have to go through it all again at a later date.

This must also cause some disruption

Rotary Club thanks for donations

ON behalf of the Rotary Club of Sedgley & Wombourne, assisted by Wombourne 3rd Scouts Group, we would like to thank everyone who contributed so generously to our annual house-to-house collections during December.

Additionally, our sincere thanks goes to the patrons of Sainsbury's Wombourne, Ashwood Garden Centre and ASDA Sedgley, where we also had a static presence accompanied by Santa's sleigh.

We are delighted to report we raised a magnificent total of just over £6,746.

This wonderful achievement enables us to continue our important work of supporting the many charities with whom we continue to be associated. A breakdown shows £1,514 was donated in Sedgley, £2,104 in Wombourne with a further £3,128 at our static collections at Ashwoods Garden Centre, ASDA Sedgley and Sainsbury's.

M H KERRIDGE
Rotary Club of Sedgley & Wombourne President

tion with the theatre staff and administration departments, but I'm sure most people would accept that is a price worth paying to help others who have urgent needs.

As this is a problem that is unlikely to get any better this time of the year – or any December/January in any year in the near future – could it not be possible for hospitals to keep December/January every year free of non-urgent operations by not making appointments?

Not only would this take some of the pressure off the system but everyone would know that there wouldn't be operations in that period.

Hospitals would have more time to plan the operations outside of those months, unlike now when they have to fit them in when they can and patients wouldn't be stressed out with cancelled appointments and then given short notice to attend rearranged dates.

Apology is not enough Mrs May

THERESA May seems to think an apology will cure all that's wrong with the NHS. Wrong again Mrs May, the NHS is now in critical condition after your Government's constant cuts and manipulation of figures.

We have frazzled staff, working at breaking point, elderly patients slumped in corridors without any means of keeping warm, or of being looked at. Stroke patients stuck in ambulances instead of seeing a doctor. We now have corridor treatment instead of A&E.

What a disgrace. You're even trying to blame the head of the NHS for the problems.

Resign now, we are all fed up with your pathetic excuses.

Our NHS staff are the best you could ask for but the Conservative Party are treating them like modern day slaves. God help us in 2020 if this shower is still in power – we will have pay as you go NHS.

Enough worries without charges

I DON'T think people rant about hospital parking charges. I haven't read any complaints about a reasonable fee being charged at all. I think many people are rightly annoyed by the rate of fees charged by some hospitals like Russells Hall, where you turn up for appointments, are invariably kept waiting for hours after the appointment time, knowing that the charges are approaching over £5 per visit.

If you're using a city car park you are there for a purpose, to use the facilities provided by that city for your own pleasure. If you're using a hospital car park, you either have a health problem or are visiting someone who has, in which case you already have a problem, why should this be added to by car parking fee worries?

Killer jailed for 21 years after bungled burglary

A 19-year-old who murdered a father-of-two during a bungled burglary has started at least 21 years behind bars.

Damilola Johnson and a 15-year-old, now aged 17, but who cannot be named, broke into the home of Simon Johnson to steal cannabis from the crop being grown at the house in Netherton.

They were both armed with knives picked up from the kitchen after entering the house in Cradley Road, which they knew was occupied, during the early hours of August 11 2016. Wolverhampton Crown Court heard.

They had filled several bin bags with leaves cut from the plants but were greedy for more and when searching for more items to steal went into the bedroom where Mr Johnson – no relation – was sleeping.

Woke

Damilola Johnson accidentally kicked the bed and woke 41-year-old Mr Johnson, who lived alone after an amicable split from his wife and children the previous summer.

There was a struggle during which the householder was knifed at least four times by Damilola Johnson with the most serious injuries being to his back and under an arm.

The attackers fled with some of the haul, leaving Mr Johnson to die on the upstairs landing where his body was later found. The pair later discarded their knives and stolen credit cards.

Johnson, of no fixed address, was told he must serve at least 21 years of a life sentence in custody before being considered for parole. He was convicted of murder and burglary after a trial.

The other defendant, who was found guilty of manslaughter by the jury, had admitted burglary and theft. He was given an extended sentence of ten years detention. He must serve at least two thirds of the term and can only be freed when it is considered safe to do so. He will then be monitored for three years longer than usual.

Damilola Johnson – killer showed no remorse and is jailed for 21 years

The burglars had heard about the cannabis plants from friends who had been drinking in Mr Johnson's home.

The victim was said to have a friendly, trusting nature and had been warned by pals about inviting people he met at the pub back to his home.

Judge James Burbidge QC told

Simon Johnson – victim was knifed at least four times at his Netherton home them: "The psychological trauma suffered by the two young daughters of Mr Johnson is almost beyond comprehension."

Mr Johnson's widow Roz – the couple have daughters now aged 18 and 11 with – remained close to him despite living apart. She said: "They adored him."

Detective Inspector Warren Hines said: "He was brutally attacked in his own home by greedy, violent criminals and not one shred of remorse has been shown by either of the convicted youths."

Crucial questions to consider before buying a conservatory

A new consumer guide has revealed how to select the right company to fit the perfect conservatory for your home.

Britain is a nation of proud homeowners and one of the best ways to enhance the look and feel inside your home is by adding a conservatory. Apart from the extra space, a huge benefit of having a conservatory is the value it adds to your property.

Did you know according to the Land Registry home price index conservatories add 7.5% to value of your home?

This is more than kitchens at 4.6 % and bathrooms at 2.88% combined.

There are many uses for conservatories, one of which is turning it into a dining area.

Imagine enjoying quality time around the dining table with family and friends, creating those unforgettable memories on birthdays, anniversaries and festive celebrations.

Avoid Making Costly Mistakes

Far too many homeowners are making poor choices at the point of purchase, which can have far reaching consequences in the future.

For example...if you're lucky enough to have a south-facing garden with a conservatory you will naturally attract more heat from the sun meaning it can be sweltering hot if it's not correctly ventilated, or when the temperature changes in the winter you could freeze without appropriate heating.

With proper planning you can prevent those two extremes happening, which is commonplace in poorly designed conservatories.

Choosing the right company

The big challenge homeowners face is in choosing the right company. The traditional way is to simply call in three companies to quote and then make a decision based on price. This method is flawed because most companies will price match. But might not quality match.

A spokesman said: "Doing your due diligence before inviting any company out to quote will safeguard you. This can be done with the aid of two free resources we recommend."

"These two resource s will arm you with information you need to avoid unscrupulous operators who provide overpriced inferior products, with poor craftsmanship.

"Having access to these resources will certainly shield you from making any mistakes.

"If you're thinking about buying a conservatory, we would urge you to read the Ultimate Consumer Awareness Guide for Buying a New Conservatory.

Inside the guide you'll discover"

● The seven questions you must ask before inviting a conservatory company to your home.

● How to evade the four biggest conservatory rip-offs used on unsuspecting homeowners .

● Learn about the little known Government legislation that could end up costing thousands in insurance claims, plus present a major problem if you try to sell your home.

● The eight mistakes to avoid when choosing the style of conservatory.

And much, much, more vital information, including the second free resource to help you make a better buying decision.

Wombourne Windows has a huge range of styles and ranges to enhance any period of home. From windows and doors to conservatories and orangeries, the company has something for everyone.

Enhancing properties for 37 years

Trusted since 1982, Wombourne Windows has been enhancing the look and value of thousands of customer homes with beautiful windows, doors and orangeries for 37 years. From country cottages to modern townhouses, our customers pride themselves on making the right choice with our high quality products, service and technical expertise.

Our Customers Demand The Best

Only the best quality materials and workmanship are used and as a result our customers feel assured of the excellent products that last for many years. Bricks and mortar may form the foundations of your house but it's the doors and windows that really create a home's personality. We understand selecting the right products for your home is important to you and like many of our customers we can guide you with our expert knowledge.

In previous years, it was a given that new windows would always be replaced with like-for-like, which in most cases meant white PVC-U, but in recent years, there has been a colour revolution driven by customers like you. Whilst white PVC-U is still going strong, today there is a myriad of options available, from dark anthracite greys, through to beautiful elegant creams, all the way through to soft greys and greens. Because of the varied colour palate and range of design options, we're experienced enough to work with you should you live a period country cottage or on a modern housing development.

Safe and Secure

A spokesman added: "As well as enhancing the look of a home, doors and windows need to be able to offer protection from both unwanted visitors and the elements, so our high performance windows and doors are energy rated A++ Gold, with state-of-the-art locking systems, because customers like you would not expect anything less."

Mr & Mrs Lane commented: "The fitter was very good, tidy - taking all waste away and leaving no sign he'd been here. And the door is very sturdy, secure and good quality."

New For 2018

The range of products continue to grow and new for 2018 is the range of Signature 2, double-glazed windows and doors which now incorporate the Triccept improved security features that have achieved the top accreditation PAS 24 and also feature a new range of luxury handles.

As requested by our customers, is the Trident range, the ultimate in energy saving performance and the only product which is purpose-made Triple glazed. If you want something different, look at the ever-popular Wodehouse Window, the perfect choice for a modern look or a more traditional design. Aluminium Bifold doors historically suffer from poor energy ratings. Wombourne Windows' third generation Bifold doors really have no equal and are not only energy efficient, but new enhanced security makes them the only sensible choice for home owners.

Most of us would love more space and light in our homes and our customers agree, there's no better way than with a quality conservatory or orangery. Conservatories and orangeries offer more benefits than you might think - forget everything you think you already know, our new in the summer, so you own a comfortable lifestyle enhancing space to enjoy all year round.

Mr & Mrs Chandler commented: "From start to finish they were excellent and were very pleasant and cheerful. Our windows are beautiful and would tell anyone to use Wombourne Windows."

The spokesman added: "Come and view the full range of products at our newly-refurbished showroom and see for yourself why Wombourne Windows are market leaders for all your window, door, conservatory and orangery requirements."

Aphrodite Rising from the Waves sold for £84,000

Aphrodite glassware provides a beautiful moment for auctioneer

AN AUCTIONEER has described the sale of a rare glass plaque made in Stourbridge as the highlight of his career.

Will Farmer, director at Fieldings Auctioneers in Stourbridge, said he was left 'touched by the heaving crowds' at Saturday's sale of George Woodall's Aphrodite Rising from the Waves, which sold for £84,000.

Mr Farmer said: "It was absolutely fantastic. It came down to two specific buyers who fought it out who were both looking for it for their collections.

"It is going to stay here in the UK. There were a lot of people from the glass community, historians, collectors – I was really touched actually. There were a lot of people there to witness the moment and by the time we came to sell the lot the room was heaving.

"To date it was a career highlight for me, it is the most important piece of glass we have been asked to handle.

"The family were in the room and I started by saying it was an honour and privilege. I think it was a very nice sentiment that the piece that was made half a mile up the road was being sold here. That is a large statement for the region and the fact we are more than capable of handling an intentionally important piece of glass."

Other high earning items in Saturday's auction included a set of Chinese opium pipes estimated at £4,000 but going for £27,000, an Alvis TD21 Series II Drophead Coupe motor from 1963 which fetched £27,000.

£3,500 is raised by hospice's 'treecycle'

A WEEKEND of Christmas tree collections has brought in more than £3,500 for Mary Stevens Hospice.

Fundraisers spent the first weekend of 2018 travelling between DY5 to DY9 post codes collecting Christmas trees from outside of supporters' homes in exchange for a donation towards the care of the families relying on the Stourbridge hospice.

In order to meet the hugely increased demand, the hospice received support from volunteers and local corporate supporters, including Enterprise Van Hire.

All the trees were taken to Hagley Christmas Trees, who have done the recycling. Bookings have re-opened on the hospice's website for 2019, with some supporters already securing their slot for next year. See www.marystevenshospice.co.uk/event/christmas-treecycle-2019 for further details.

Security has to be tighter at pub after man injured

Report by Annabal Bagdi

BOSSSES at a Stourbridge town centre pub have been forced to tighten-up security after a vicious brawl erupted at the venue.

Stourbridge's Bell Hotel came under scrutiny after a customer was left with serious injuries at the Market Street pub in October. But police were unable to prosecute as CCTV at the pub had been switched off and staff failed to alert emergency services.

Dudley councillors have agreed that the premises can remain open but said pub bosses must follow a set of stringent conditions made by police.

Speaking at Dudley council's licensing sub-committee, Stourbridge town centre's Councillor Nicholas Barlow said: "I think the concerns that have been raised highlight there has been a failure to understand the obligations that staff have. In my view, ignorance is no excuse."

West Midlands Police requested the pub's licence be reviewed after an altercation broke out in the pub on October 22. The victim needed hospital treatment after being assaulted with a glass or bottle in the early hours of the morning.

Door staff removed people from the pub and members of the public and the operator of the council's CCTV calling emergency services when a fight then began in the street.

The force's licensing and regulatory officer Donna Jenkins said the attack was not captured on CCTV as the system had failed to record anything since August 24. She said a female suspect was arrested at the scene, adding: "During this time, no call was made by the venue to the police. Without CCTV, this incident can't be progressed."

Mrs Jenkins went on to say it became clear during a follow-up meeting that the pub supervisor had 'no understanding of the licensing obligations' or staff responsibilities.

Karen Cochrane, representing Marstons, which took over the pub last January, said the incident was a one-off and the company had since changed its supervisor.

Pub staff must now comply with 11 conditions, including having a CCTV system which is satisfactory to the police and getting at least two members of door staff to wear body cameras. Drinks cannot be served in a glass after 11pm, there must be a first aider on site and bag and body searches must take place on entering.

The pub's licence allows it to serve alcohol and hold entertainment until 2am Thursday to Sunday, until midnight Monday to Wednesday.

Fright fans meet stars at horror convention

A TWO-DAY event for fans of horror film and books is being held next month.

MP backs appeal to help brave little Isla

DUDLEY North MP Ian Austin is backing a fundraising appeal for a young girl battling cancer as the fund approaches the £100,000 mark.

Isla Austin, no relation, has been fighting cancer for more than a year and her family launched the fundraising push in a bid to pay for experimental treatment.

Two-year-old Isla has been diagnosed with high-risk neuroblastoma, and her family are looking to raise £155,000 for the treatment in America. They have raised £95,000 so far from a JustGiving page and various other donations.

Mr Austin said via social media: "Two-year-old Isla has been fighting cancer for more than a year now. Help her access the treatment she needs by donating online."

Since being diagnosed on her first birthday, Isla has undergone treatment including chemotherapy, radiotherapy, a stem cell transplant, a seven and a half hour surgery and immunotherapy.

Isla has been fighting cancer for a year

Ian Austin MP supports the appeal will be a bucket collection at Molineux to raise money for Isla.

While Isla is currently in remission from cancer, youngsters with neuroblastoma – the same disease which young Sunderland fan Bradley Lowery suffered from – have a 50 per cent chance of a relapse, and relapsed neuroblastoma has a less than one in 10 chance of survival.

Former Wolverhampton Wanderers keeper Matt Murray is a friend of Isla's family and also backs the appeal. He said: "They're all amazing, a really close knit family. Being a parent myself what Anna and Rick are going through must be so hard. Every bit counts, if everyone reading this could give just a pound it would really help."

Her parents Rick and Anna have organised for Isla to access a 'bivalent vaccine' clinical trial at the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center in New York, in the hope it will help prevent the cancer returning.

The £155,000 they need to raise will cover the cost of the treatment, travel and accommodation, and ensure a contingency fund for any unforeseen complications while overseas.

It's a happy ending for Elsa back from the brink

On the road to a full recovery – Elsa with Lin Reeves from the Animal House Rescue Centre

A DOG which has battled back from the brink of death after being abandoned warmed the hearts of more than 400 people during a special 'meet and greet' event.

Elsa the French mastiff has become something of a star after her story went viral online.

She was thought to be just hours from death when found at Corngreaves Nature Reserve in Cradley Heath but she is now well on the road to recovery.

The desperately thin dog was rescued and taken in by the Animal House Rescue Charity, which is run by volunteers in Sandwell, and given emergency treatment. She is now living with a foster family in South Staffordshire.

Animal lovers were invited to come and meet Elsa, who is now looking much healthier and happier weeks on from her ordeal, at Your Vets in Smethwick, where she was cared for after being passed on by the rescue charity.

There were scenes akin to a celebrity appearance as visitors queued at the door to catch a glimpse of the much-loved dog.

She now weighs 34kg – double that of when she was found on death's door at the nature reserve.

Elsa, who is aged around three or four, was given her nickname because she was found 'frozen'. Charity volunteer Sue Hodges said: "We invited people to come down and meet her following the story which, through Facebook and the Express & Star, has gone worldwide. We had a lot of people who said they wished they could come and be with her so we decided to invite them in."

Geoff: I owe my life to university medics

EX-ENGLAND and Wolves footballer Geoff Thomas has paid tribute to life-saving medics as he collected an honorary doctorate from Birmingham City University.

The ex-footballer, leukaemia survivor and charity fundraiser told students and academics that he wouldn't have been here without the work of Birmingham's Professor Charlie Craddock and his team.

The presentation was made during a ceremony held at Birmingham's Symphony Hall, alongside students graduating from the University's Faculty of Health, Education and Life Sciences.

Wonderful

Geoff was selected to receive the award in recognition of the millions of pounds he has helped raise for blood cancer charities since recovering from the disease himself – despite being told he had just three months to live in 2003.

Speaking at the ceremony Geoff said: "I wouldn't be here if it wasn't for a certain Professor Charlie Craddock and his wonderful team. He guided me through a year of treatment, radiotherapy, chemotherapy and through the arduous stem cell transplant which saved my life."

He added: "This new funding is delivering new hope to patients being diagnosed today. Birmingham is a hub and Charlie Craddock and his team are a leading light in this fight. I was very fortunate because of where I lived, that I got the best care."

"I've come back to Cure Leukaemia and we've raised £1.5 million this year to help extend the Haematology Centre to make it a state-of-the-art facility. It actually opens today and I'm so proud of that." Over a 20-year professional career, Geoff played for football clubs including Crystal Palace, Nottingham Forest and Wolves, as well as picking up nine caps for England.

After retiring from the game in 2002 he was diagnosed with a form of leukaemia and given just three months to live, but following a stem cell transplant from his sister and treatment by Birmingham's Professor Charlie Craddock he entered remission two years later. Geoff has dedicated his life to raising funds for blood cancer patients since recovering from leukaemia, starting the Geoff Thomas Foundation, which raises funds to fight cancer, and regularly taking part in activities for Cure Leukaemia.

He has had a long association with the West Midlands having arrived in the region in 1993 to pull on the old gold of Wolves where he spent four seasons.

He has also been a supporter of ex-Aston Villa captain Suliyan Petrov who retired from the game after being diagnosed with leukaemia in 2013, and Wolves goalkeeper Carl Ikeme, who is currently undergoing treatment for leukaemia. Closing his speech Geoff said: "Finally, all I'd say to you graduates from what I've learned through the world of sport and what I've been through, if you believe and you have the passion just go for it."

Simple steps homeowners can take now to protect their assets

Head of April King Legal Paul King explains why some homeowners are doing too little, too late to protect their hard-earned assets.

Paul King, Head of April King Legal

1. Care Cost Fees

A lot of people are still unaware that if they need care in later life, their assets will be means-tested by the local authority to help pay for these services. This goes back to the Community Care Act 1990, which came into force in 1993. If someone requires social care in later life, the local authority will look to use the assets of a person until they get down to a lower limit of £14,250, when the local authority will take over the fees.

Paul knows this all too well, after experiencing this personally. "My own grandmother sadly passed away recently at the age of 92. My grandfather had died many years earlier and left everything to her.

When she needed care in the last six years of her life, because my grandfather had left everything to her, the house and all the estate were counted in the local authority's means test.

Our clients tell us, 'We've worked hard all our lives, why should the local authority get it all?'

Just as she died, she had gone down to that lower limit of £14,250 – and that's all that her children inherited."

There are many myths about the steps people can take to protect their assets from being used like this. The main one is that a parent should simply sign their house over to the children now, so it won't be taken into consideration for means testing. That's just not true.

Local authorities will actually look to see if you've 'deliberately deprived' yourself of an asset by giving yourself away, going back over any period in time.

Sometimes people think if the gift is made seven years prior then the house is safe.

This is not so as the seven-year rule only applies to Inheritance Tax and not local authority care.

The solution is for couples to simply not leave everything to each other in the first place.

Paul continues: "What my grandfather could have done is leave his half of the house in trust to his children, stating that they couldn't have it while his wife, my grandmother, was still alive. We call these Property Trust Wills.

If my grandfather had left his half of the house in trust to the children then when my grandmother subsequently received care in her later life she would have only been means tested on her own half of the house, but my grandfather's half would have been safe.

Why should he have to contribute his half when he didn't receive any care?

The important factor is that couples need to act in advance. Once one party dies or loses mental capacity, through a stroke for example, they are no longer in a position to do this legitimate and straightforward type of planning.

It is therefore important for couples to act now even if they may not foresee care fees being an issue."

Paul goes on to explain a further important point. Most clients he sees are surprised to learn that remarriage usually cancels a will and makes the new spouse next in line to inherit, ahead of their own children!

Protecting your half of the house in this way, he suggests, ensures that your children ultimately inherit when the survivor dies.

"Had my grandmother remarried after the death of my grandfather the whole estate could have passed sideways out of the family," says Paul.

It's another important reason for home-owning couples to upgrade to a Property Trust Will.

2. Bloodline Trust Wills

The majority of April King's clients have already made standard "mirror wills" with other firms before approaching the firm. A mirror will is when a couple leave everything to each other on the first death, then to the children when the second partner dies. But modern family life means these type of wills leave a lot to chance.

Explains Paul: "If I have a mirror will leaving everything to my wife and she remarries or goes into care after my death then either the new husband or the local authority are likely to inherit most, if not all, of my estate ahead of my children.

Even if my children are named in my mirror will it is by no means certain that they will inherit anything.

Once again, this is because a remarriage would cancel the will my wife had previously made with me and make the new husband next-of-kin. This often comes as a big shock to my clients who had perhaps thought that all was in order and that the family bloodline would one day inherit.

The same is true for thinking that their children and/or grandchildren will one day benefit under a mirror will. If any of your children should die leaving everything to their husband or wife and that son-in-law or daughter-in-law should then remarry, then your grandchildren would be the ones to lose out under the line of inheritance.

Worse still, someone else's grandchildren would be in line to receive the benefit of all your years of hard work!

I've experienced this in my own family and I'm sure most people have had similar experiences or heard of someone who has. Bloodline trusts will give greater protection to your children."

Paul continues: "These things can be avoided by having a bloodline trusts will. Under these types of wills your children have complete control and access to the inheritance they receive from you but give added protection from the twists and turns of modern family life. The wording in these wills states that any money left over on their demise must pass to any children born of them – your grandchildren."

3. Lasting Power of Attorney

Paul explains how people often get confused thinking that, because they have made a will, their executors can also deal with assets if there is illness, stroke or some other form of incapacity while they are still alive.

"Everyone should actually have two documents – a will that deals with their estate on death, and a lasting power of attorney that deals with their estate during their lifetime," he says.

The lasting power of attorney is a relatively new introduction and is divided into two parts – one deals with finance, the other deals with health and welfare. In many ways it's similar to a passport; a document that's registered now and one which can be physically handed to the attorneys should the need arise. It allows the attorneys, perhaps the children, to deal with banks and pension companies etc should their parent become incapacitated, but also to deal with matters such as where the parent should be living and how they receive care. Your attorneys, again perhaps your children, must legally act in your best interests at all times. You can choose a number of attorneys to act, either jointly or independently, and April King advises on the various options available.

Couples are often surprised to discover that even joint bank accounts can be frozen until the bank sees sight of a lasting power of attorney document

Having a lasting power of attorney removes the burden on children should ill-health happen further down the line. It helps a family deal with bank accounts and so on during a parent's lifetime and ceases on death. Crucially, you have to complete a lasting power of attorney while they are still in good mental health.

If someone becomes ill through say, a stroke or dementia, this option is lost and the family would have to apply for an order from the Court of Protection – a drawn out and expensive process. It is therefore a good idea for clients to plan ahead and remove any future burden from the family.

Once again, all adults should be thinking of this, particularly where there are children or a business involved. It's not just something to think about when you get older, that's the challenge for us.

People think 'I'm not ill, why do I need to make a power of attorney?'

But they're missing the point. This is a document that has to be done in advance. Paul adds: "The next part is to appoint the attorneys, your children. Don't forget, your children can be the executors of your will and attorneys as well. The lasting power of attorney remains in place until you die unless you want to cancel it. Once it's registered, you don't have to worry if you then develop some debilitating illness. A burden has been removed from the family at an already difficult time."

Northern Soul pals keep the faith – 42 years on

IT may have been more than 40 years since they last gathered but original members of Wombourne Youth Club still know how to strike a pose.

The 70s hairstyles and outfits may be gone but their passion for Northern Soul and good times still remains.

Around a dozen members of the club formed in the early 70s met at the Mount Pleasant pub in the village. Their aim was to step back in time and recreate a memorable photo that appeared in our sister daily the Express & Star in 1975.

Ian Kelly, aged 60, had even flown over from Algarve, Portugal, for the occasion. He arranged the evening through a Facebook post.

Sponsored

He explained: "We were all members of the Wombourne Youth Club in the early to mid 70s and were all Northern Soul fans and went to school nearby. We did a sponsored dance for Age Concern and went on to raise £150.

"The Express & Star came out and took some snaps of me handing over the cheque to Barbara Windsor who was performing at The Grand at the time. Then recently I thought wouldn't it be great 42 years on to recreate the photo from that night.

"Thankfully all the members are still alive but there were a few who couldn't make it. One guy has come from Turkey, another from Cheltenham, someone from Wales and then the rest are from here still."

Their stomping ground then was also Wigan Casino, a top venue for northern soul from 1973 to 1981.

"It feels like yesterday," Mr Kelly added.

Join debate on Powell's Rivers of Blood speech

FOR 50 years Enoch Powell's Rivers of Blood speech has continued to divide opinion and spark heated debate.

It is clearly still of interest today ahead of a discussion on the former Wolverhampton MP's legacy.

Organised by our sister paper the Express & Star, it has already received a host of questions to be put to the six-strong panel at the debate, part of the Wolverhampton Literature Festival which runs from January 26 to 28.

The panel consists of academics, politicians and authors, all of whom have a personal interest in Powell and the impact his words have had on modern day Britain. Readers have put forward such interesting questions as 'If the speech was made today would/should the speaker be prosecuted?'

Anxieties

And 'Can the panelists identify one positive change in local or national life that came about because of the speech?'

On the panel is Wolverhampton South West MP Eleanor Smith, who said after she won Powell's old seat at last year's general election: "I feel it closes that chapter now for good."

Historian Dr Shirin Hirsch is also taking part. The University of Wolverhampton research fellow is writing a book on Powell, and says that his speech created 'a political language to direct people's anxieties towards black immigrants'.

The panel also features UKIP MEP Bill Etheridge - who echoed Powell's words in a controversial speech of his own in November 2015 - and journalist and political commentator Nick Jones, who has written extensively about his father and former Express

Enoch Powell's speech has continued to divide opinion

Eleanor Smith is the Labour MP for Enoch Powell's old seat

& Star editor Clem Jones' relationship with Powell.

Wolverhampton-born political activist Patrick Vernon and Express & Star columnist Nigel Hastilow make up the sextet.

Anyone who would like to submit a question can email karen.baker@expressandstar.co.uk, or write to Editor's Secretary Karen Baker, Express & Star, Queen Street, Wolverhampton, WV1 1ES. Readers are welcome to come along and put question themselves. The debate is at the university MC001 building at 2.30pm on January 27 and is free.

Powell delivered his speech on April 20, 1968, at the Midland Hotel in Birmingham. In it, the then Conservative MP warned against mass immigration and alluded to ancient Roman literature when he warned the streets of Britain would be awash with blood as a result of racial conflict. It would become the defining moment of his lengthy political career.

Meanwhile, the winners have now been chosen for both the Express & Star short story competition and the young authors contest. The winners will be unveiled on January 27.

The winner will be read out at the festival by local author Paul Dowswell at Wolverhampton Art Gallery after his talk with fellow writer Ian Billings entitled Writing for Fun and Profit on January 28, 12.30-1.30pm. The story will be printed in the Express & Star.

The four winning stories from the young author competition, open to Key Stage 2 and 3 children, will be performed by performing arts students at Wolverhampton College at the Slade Rooms from 2pm. The Festival will see more than 80 events taking place at venues across the city.

National Theatre tour brings Hedda to Grand

Lizzy Watts plays the title role of the free-spirited Hedda Gabler, one of the great dramatic roles in theatre

THE National Theatre's production of classic marital strife drama Hedda Gabler is being staged at Wolverhampton Grand Theatre.

This modern version of Henrik Ibsen's classic 1891 play has been adapted by Olivier Award-winning playwright Patrick Marber to give a contemporary resonance to the story of a young bride trapped in a loveless marriage, which drives her to extremes. This critically acclaimed production is now on a UK and Ireland tour following a sold out run at the National Theatre.

It is being staged at the Grand from Tuesday to Saturday, January 27.

Lizzy Watts plays the title role of the free-spirited Hedda Gabler, one of the greatest dramatic parts in theatre and regarded as the female Hamlet.

Miss Watts' theatre credits include Strife at Chichester Festival Theatre, A Midsummer Night's Dream at The Globe, Blink for Nabokov and Wasted for Paines Plough. Her TV work includes The Durrells, in which she played Larry's girlfriend Nancy, and Midsommer Murders. She also plays Ivy Layton in BBC Radio 4's Home Front.

It is directed by Olivier and Tony Award-winner Ivo van Hove, who also directed acclaimed productions of A View from the Bridge and Network.

There is an opening night two for one ticket offer and for further details see grandtheatre.co.uk or call the box office on 01902 429212.

Get set for Superbowl at venues

VENUES are gearing up to go all American for the Superbowl.

Hickory's on Kidderminster Road in Wall Heath is holding a tailgate party on the night and says on its website 'we will be in full party mode until the early hours as we go NFL crazy for the greatest show on earth'. Tickets are on sale.

Meanwhile, The Green Duck Brewery in Stourbridge is rolling out the barrels for the big night of American Football next month.

The brewery will be hosting the event at its Rufford Road base on Sunday, February 4, with two giant screens put up for the night. The £10 admission includes a free pint and a food box at half-time from the American pit BBQ.

Banjo star's trio playing folk club

THE Dan Walsh Trio will be playing a concert near Kingswinford.

Led by banjo player and singer Dan, they have a home town concert in Stafford Gatehouse on May 8 and then visit the Woodman Folk Club in Ashwood on May 11. Dan was nominated for Musician Of The Year at the BBC Folk Awards. His trio features Ciaran Algar (fiddle) and Nic Zuppari (mandolin). See www.woodmanfolk.co.uk website.

FOCUS ON KINGSWINFORD & WALL HEATH

Church expansion approved despite residents' concerns

A CHURCH will be replaced with a larger building under expansion plans approved by Dudley council.

Councillors gave the green light to Wall Heath Evangelical Free Church for the revamp despite objections from neighbours, some of who said the new church would look like a 'factory unit'.

The plans will see the Enville Road church, dating back to 1952, enlarged and transformed from a one-storey to two, to cater for a growing congregation.

The application was recommended for refusal by a planning officer but the committee unanimously gave the plans the go-ahead.

Welcoming

The meeting heard there had been 15 objections made by local residents.

The church's Reverend Matthew Jones said: "It is never our intention to upset neighbours."

"Our proposed development will indeed have some impact on the community."

"We want to provide a warm, welcoming, contemporary space that is sustainable for generations of people in Wall Heath."

by Jamie Brassington

"We are completely self-funded and rely on members own charitable giving and some grants to provide for all our services."

The church has around 135 people in Sunday congregations with other community events attended during the week.

At 216-seat auditorium is planned with new facilities including toilets, a kitchen, store areas and a cafe.

Pamela Horwill, who lives next door to the church, said the new church would look 'at best residential accommodation and at worst a factory unit'.

"These plans will have a detrimental affect on homes on their quality of life," she said. There was also concern about extra traffic along Enville Road.

Wall Heath Evangelical Free Church has now been given the thumbs up for a controversial expansion of its building

In the zone come rain or shine

A SPECIAL school has launched a games area in a bid to get their pupils outdoors.

The Brier School in Kingswinford revealed their PlayZone after two years of planning and preparation.

It has already been used for quick cricket, five-a-side football, relay races, bike riding and sponsored walks.

Headteacher Russell Hinton said: "This space has made such a difference to the children, they can be outdoors and get fresh air all year round, regardless of the weather."

"It took more than two years planning because of the size and design and it was built by A&S Landscape who specialise in school canopies."

Bungalows get go-ahead

THREE two-bedroom bungalows will be built on empty land in Kingswinford. The properties earmarked for Cot Lane would each have a garage and two parking spaces and a 10 metre long rear garden.

Access to the properties will be gained via an existing driveway to garages to the south of the site, which is land to the rear of 208-212 Cot Lane. The application was approved with conditions on January 10.

20 Rock tributes to Moody's Ray

Stourbridge Chronicle Thursday, January 18, 2018

THE Moody Blues' Justin Hayward and John Lodge have paid tribute to their former bandmate Ray Thomas, who died, following prostate cancer, at the age of 76.

Hayward said: "Ray was a kind, generous and giving musician and friend and I treasure all the music we made together." Lodge said: "Ray and I have been on this magical journey through life together since we were 14, two kids from a council estate in Erdington who reached for the stars."

Ray Thomas

Thomas, flautist and vocalist in the Birmingham-based band, was born in Stourport-on-Severn on December 29 1941, and started out in blues and soul groups in the 1960s, forming The Moody Blues alongside Mike Pinder, Denny Laine, Graeme Edge and Clint Warwick.

The band's hits include Go Now, Nights In White Satin and Question.

Violent and abusive passenger is sought

POLICE are on the hunt for a man who made homophobic comments towards a passenger while on a train to Wolverhampton. A 23-year-old man was travelling to the city on December 23, on the 7.03pm service.

The suspect

He went to use the toilet and, while waiting for it to become available, was abused by a man.

CCTV footage showed the same man putting another teenage boy in a headlock, who was also queuing for the toilet. The offender then got off at Wolverhampton but told the station manager he was heading to Shrewsbury.

Anyone who recognises the man in the attached image should contact police. Get in touch by calling British Transport Police on 0800 405040.

Weight for it! As players are on target for fitness

Man vs Fat organiser Mark Phillips with the ball

Players in action at one of the sessions which take place every Friday

On the pitch at RSA Academy in Tipton

IT'S the football league that gives players the chance to score some goals while losing weight.

And now the Man vs Fat players are celebrating after losing around 230kgs in weight.

The calorie burning boys have seen up to 55 players shed weight with their love for the game. The Tipton-based group has just finished a 10-week season.

Fitness trainer and organiser Mark Phillips, aged 39, from Tipton, said: "Since we have started we have lost around 230kgs.

"It started in September and it is a weight loss league so how it works is they get weighed in each week and whatever they get is a goal or half a goal added to each team.

"It is all about weight loss, it is all about football as well – it is kind of like a Slimming World group but for men.

"It is appealing for a lot of men because obviously, men don't feel comfortable about going to weight watchers and slimming group with a lot of women in.

"It is coming up with an answer for where men actually go to – the common factor to get men involved most time is football."

The men get weighed in and play six-a-side matches with rolling substitutes – so everyone has a chance to rest.

Mr Phillips continued: "I am a coach but I also run a weight loss business myself across the UK, I have done many different things but this is one of the things I really wanted to get interested in and bring into my portfolio.

"It has gone very well, the weight loss has gone extremely well.

"We have WhatsApp groups – the men talk all week about recipes, about supporting each other and what they are going to do to help each other.

"It is a communication system where they have all formed into teams, some very good friendships are forming and they are helping each other overcome weight loss problems.

"It is a great way instead of being isolated on your own.

"A lot of new Man vs Fat groups are popping up across the UK, it is raging all across the UK and there is about 30 to 35 Man vs Fat groups now.

"It is really engaging men's interests and we are just a small part of the Midlands side."

Meetings take place every Friday between 7pm and 9pm at RSA Academy in Tipton.

Fun, friendship and laughter on the move

Greenline Coaches pride themselves on being the Black Country's true king of the road. Based in Stourbridge, the thriving family-owned company aims to put the customer first at all times by offering executive coach hire combined with a diverse range of day tours, weekend breaks and two and five to eight-day holidays throughout the UK. Many of the hotels used by Greenline are also family-owned and run. Greenline director/owner Andy Phillips is assisted by wife Nikki, brother Simon, niece Amy, and 10 other trusted members of staff to complete a happy and efficient team.

Experience

Andy has many years' experience within the sector having previously worked for a well-known Blackheath coach company until their retirement. Andy said: "After that company ended, I used to see lots of old customers and they'd always comment on how much they missed their day trips and holidays so that inspired me to start our own company. "I'm delighted to say we get lots of word-of-mouth recommendations and repeat bookings. Our personal and friendly service combined with our experienced office staff, professional drivers and couriers ensure that our customers' day tours and holidays are always pleasurable and memorable. "We treat our customers as a name, not a number, and regard them as part of our Greenline family. They receive free drinks, biscuits and treats on all holidays served by our friendly and helpful on-board couriers." Greenline's smart coaches are modern 16 to 53-seater executive models with air

Wishes do come true – but take willpower

Lisa Riley cried her eyes out the first time she put on a size 12 T-shirt. "It was the best feeling ever," she says.

The former Emmerdale actress has lost a whopping 12 stone 7lbs in the last year and a half, an achievement that has left her glowing with health and happiness, writes Marion Brennan.

But it hasn't been easy, a point that the 41-year-old, who recently starred in panto at the Wolverhampton Grand Theatre, makes repeatedly in a new book about her diet journey.

She has gone from a size 28 to a slender size 12, and admits that she only had herself to blame for taking so long to make the transformation.

The book is called The Honesty Diet because it wasn't until she stopped lying to herself that she was able to lose weight, she says.

She confesses she always kept a Warburtons white loaf in the bread bin which she would eat toasted and swimming in butter.

Breakfast would be four slices followed by a bowl of Coco Pops, she told the Daily Mirror in an article promoting her new book.

At work she would have a cheese and onion toastie with chips and a can of Tango but when the snack trolley came round during filming, she would down a prawn sandwich as well as doughnuts and cakes.

Crisps were also a weakness – "I could polish off a tube of Pringles in minutes, and go back for more" – and she always had a few bags of sweets on the go. Pasta and garlic bread were particular favourites.

At a restaurant she never ate fewer than three courses, plus sides and a bottle of Malbec, followed by a chocolate dessert and milky coffee.

Even then, she would often stop on the way home for Pringles and chocolate to eat in front of the TV.

She says: "I can't stress enough how much of a game changer it was for me when I acknowledged what I was eating on a daily basis.

"Once I was realistic about the fact I was the one who had made – and was keeping – myself fat, I was able to start making real, substantial changes.

"It's so important to write things down and face them.

"Over the years, I'd told so many lies to myself about losing weight, I'd completely deafened myself with them.

"I shed a fair few tears in those early days, I can tell you. Later they turned to tears of joy"

"I'd got used to being different from other people and labelling myself the 'fat, funny one'.

"Until I recognized that the only person I was lying to about the mess I'd got myself into was me, I couldn't move on."

She started by writing an 'honesty diary' in which she wrote down each day what time I ate, what she ate, why she ate it and how it made her feel.

Each night she wrote a brief summary of her day, and went to sleep holding an image in her head of what she wanted to look like.

"You write down every little thing you eat so it's in front of you in black and white. Any time you feel up or down, you make a note of it.

"I shed a fair few tears in those early days, I can tell you. Then, later on down the line, they turned to tears of joy."

Now she breakfasts on porridge with honey, and enjoys butternut squash soup with oatcakes for lunch.

A favourite meal in the evening is garlic and chilli cod with roasted spinach and cauliflower, while for snacks she will turn to almonds or cashew nuts and fruit.

She never skips a meal but won't eat after 6.30pm and takes regular exercise.

She warns anyone inspired by her example it won't be easy but it will be worth it.

"I'm not one of those people who's going to say you can eat chocolate and ice cream and still drop pounds because that's simply not true.

"If you're overweight, you're probably eating too much," she says.

Following her weight loss, the actress had surgery to remove the excess skin she was left with as a result, and has a new man in her life.

She says now: "Dieting will always be a way of life for me now.

"People notice all the time that I'm careful but that is because I have to be.

"I am walking, talking, smiling evidence that with the right guidance, determination and self-belief – and a healthy dose of willpower – you can be the size you've always wanted to be.

"Back when I was delving into my wardrobe and pulling out size 28 clothes, I never dreamed I'd be able to walk into a shop and pick up a size 12 knowing it would fit me.

"But now that's my reality every time I buy new clothes. And my God, I love it."

Shining a light on the dangers of laser pens

Police footage of a laser pen being shone at a force helicopter from the street

SQUADRON Leader Gary James is convinced it wouldn't happen if people realised the consequences.

Pilots being distracted and even blinded by lasers is a very real problem," says the flight safety officer at RAF Shawbury.

"Laser illumination has affected our own pilots on numerous occasions over the past few years. What may be seen like harmless fun to the laser operator can be debilitating and potentially fatal to the crew."

New legislation which could see people who point laser pens at aircraft – or other vehicles – facing up to five years in jail is currently going through Parliament.

Flt Lt Jonathan Price, an RAF pilot of 36 years based at RAF Cosford, was himself targeted while flying around the base about advertising devices online which are up to 2,000 times more powerful.

One such advert claims its hand-held device is "strong enough to burn holes, pop balloons, and start fires from across the room", "has a range of 50 miles", and "can be seen from outer space."

The danger that something like this could cause in the wrong hands does not bear thinking about.

Margot James, the Stourbridge MP and Consumer Minister, says these devices are a real concern, and has promised tighter checks at UK ports to stop them getting into the country.

More than 150 incidents of eye injuries involving laser pointers have been reported since 2013, the vast majority of these involving children.

Miss James says in many of these cases neither children nor their parents have had any idea of how dangerous these devices can be. She says the Government would be working to raise awareness of the risks associated with laser pointers.

In 2016 the Civil Aviation Authority recorded a total of 1,258 incidents involving laser pens across the UK, with Birmingham Airport the second most targeted site in England with 73 reports.

The issue has been raised in the House of Commons by Mark Pritchard, MP for The Wrekin, who said: "These incidents are increasing in number and endanger crew, passengers and aircraft. Action is needed before a serious accident occurs."

Assuming it passes through Parliament, the proposed new law will remove the need to prove intent, making it easier to secure a conviction, and would also extend it to cover other vehicles, such as cars, buses and trains.

Ollie Dismore, a police helicopter pilot for more than 30 years, says he himself has been targeted 20 times with a laser.

Calling the issue of laser attacks a "growing problem", especially with the powerful lasers that are now available, he said "you will not find a police pilot who has not been targeted multiple times".

The tightening of the law has been backed by the British Airline Pilots Association, and Sqn Ldr James also says it is a step in the right direction.

"We welcome new legislation that protects aircrew and highlights to the general public the dangers of using a laser," he says.

But while the new laws should make it easier to secure a conviction, the hard work will be educating the public about the possible consequences of playing around with these seemingly innocuous devices.

Squadron Leader Gary James

two years ago. "I was just flying around the local area when I became aware of this light being shone at me," he says. "While I wasn't blinded, it was distracting, I was thinking about it when I was trying to do other things."

He says pilots are trained to take certain steps to minimise the risks, which might include adjusting the pilot's seating position so that something is obstructing the view of the laser. "In the plane that I fly, I can adjust the angle I am flying at slightly, so that I can't see the beam, but a pilot trying to land an airliner at Birmingham Airport cannot do that," he says.

It is not just pilots who are at risk. There have been reports of them being pointed at trains and other vehicles, and there are also concerns that some of the more powerful devices have been causing eye injuries.

Present legislation says that only laser pens that are "considered safe" can be sold in the UK, with the guidance being that they should not be stronger than one milliwatt. But overseas retailers have been

CANAL SIDE RETREAT

Situated in an idyllic pocket of Stourbridge by the canal, our traditional, unspoilt 19th century public house welcomes families, musicians, boaters, walkers, cyclists and fishermen alike.

Amicably known as the 'Sammy', the pub is a popular setting equally for passer-bys and the locals. Boasting the most fearsome landlady in 1840, and her rival 'She who must be obeyed' in the form of Sheila, the present licensee, the team will ensure that you enjoy your time with us.

If you're just looking for a bite to eat, we have a selection of bar snacks available which can be washed down with a beer, wine, cider or spirit of your choice in a beautiful location. Remember us if you're hosting a party, we have a function room ready and waiting. Just ask us for further information regarding catering and disco hire; we have plenty of contacts to help get the party in full swing!

So, whether you're looking for somewhere to meet with family and friends, have a bite to eat, enjoy some live music or challenge yourself with a classic pub quiz, the Samson and Lion has something to offer everyone.

We look forward to seeing you soon!

Why it's now Strictly business for Ore

Celebrity dancers and their professional partners will return to Birmingham Arena tomorrow (Friday), Saturday and Sunday for five shows.

Strictly Come Dancing fans can feast on the dancing shoes and sequins of Gemma Atkinson and Aljaž Skorjanec; Alexandra Burke and Gorka Marquez; Susan Calman and Kevin Clifton; Davood Ghadami and Nadiya Bychkova; Joe McFadden and Katya Jones; Debbie McGee and Giovanni Pernice; and Jonnie Peacock and Oti Mabuse.

The fabulous celebrities and professional dancers will be joining the tour judging panel of Craig Revel Horwood, Bruno Tonioli and Darcey Bussell.

To round off the sparkling line-up, the tour will be hosted by reigning Strictly Champion Ore Oduba. They will all be joined by more Strictly professional dancers, the Strictly singers and the Strictly live band.

For Ore, it's a dream come true to be involved in the show once more. He's a Strictly addict who watches every minute of every show.

"If there's a slight mistake, my heart sinks and beats unhealthily fast. Even before the titles run, I can feel what the dancers are feeling. What would be funny is if someone filmed me, Gogglebox-style, watching Strictly. It's like a one-man-band of weird."

Ore admitted he'd missed the show so much that he jumped at the chance to get involved when he was asked.

"I'm not pining to be doing it again, but if there's something I miss it's the camaraderie and the backstage buzz. There's nothing like that buzz."

One of the most popular performers at Birmingham Arena will be Debbie McGee. The star was the surprise package of last year's show and didn't realise the chemistry she'd have with her partner, Giovanni Pernice.

"It's one in a million. We realised we wanted to dance together, but I don't think we realised the absolute chemistry we'd have."

DESERVED

"There's a magic that is happening. The other dancers took the mickey out of us. He really cares, he doesn't just care about me, he cares about everybody. He makes everyone feel special and that's what Paul used to do, and that's what I love about him."

"We've laughed about how similar we are. Why does it happen in life? I don't know. We just have this incredible bond. I don't care because we had the most amazing time and we said, 'Let's just enjoy the last three dances', and for me, all I wanted to do was to do the best I possibly could, which I did, so I'm happy. We all deserved to win. It doesn't matter because we had a great time."

Last year's show was the 15th series of Strictly Come Dancing and featured winner Joe McFadden along with runners-up Debbie McGee, Gemma Atkinson and Alexandra Burke.

Joe says he found himself under pressure during the TV show. "You're concentrating on each move. I know she's (Katya) got her eyes out looking for me doing it wrong and having a turned-in foot when it should be turned out and not having fingers pointed at the end."

Despite his success in the show, Joe and the runners-up didn't stick around to party after the Glitterball presentation.

"There was a little bit of a party Saturday night. The four finalists were all so exhausted – I don't think we partied very hard. And I of course had the obligatory cold which descended instantly, the second I won."

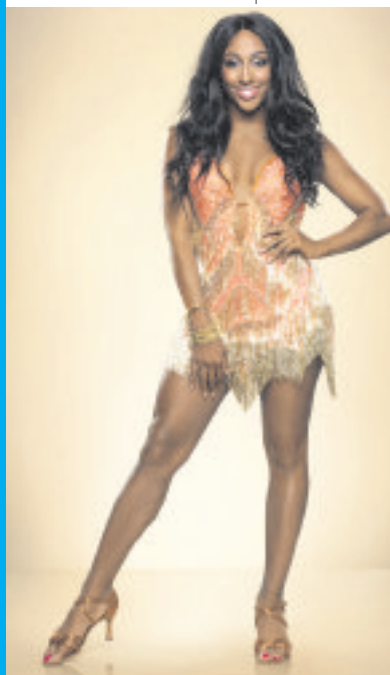

Alexandra Burke made her name on another reality TV show – The X Factor – and has got engaged since Strictly ended just before Christmas.

She shared a photo showing her hand with the words "I said yes" written on it, after getting engaged in Paris on December 18.

"So grateful for this amazing man in my life who has supported my family and I through so much," she added.

"We decided to keep this between us for a while to enjoy this special moment and that's why we haven't said anything . . . Something so amazing honestly felt so overwhelming because there was only one person I wanted to call when it happened. I know she is smiling and very happy for us both - because little did I know she knew about it.

"For those who guessed and have left such beautiful messages – thank you. Josh is someone who makes me so happy and I've never felt this kind of love before. Here's to an amazing future that's filled with love, joy and so much happiness. I love you Joshua Ginnelly. I can't wait to see what our future brings and what God provides for us xxx"

Gemma Atkinson, meanwhile, has fuelled rumours of romance with Ryan Giggs, since the show ended. The duo had a lunch date at a restaurant in Manchester, even though they have denied dating.

Atkinson said she was bored by the speculation: "Anyone I hang about with of the opposite sex, people say I'm going out with. Whenever we all go out together as friends people say we're in a relationship."

Atkinson is best known for her role as Lisa Hunter on Hollyoaks and for the character Tamzin Bayle on Casualty. She also plays Carly Hope on Emmerdale and is an ex-glamour model.

The Manchester entertainer rose to fame on Hollyoaks and her star has continued to rise. She has previously featured in the reality show Soapstar Superstar as well as Celebrity Weakest Link and Celebrity Mastermind.

Iain Mackay and Jenna Roberts

Iain's ballet goodbye

TOMORROW night (Friday) the acclaimed Royal Ballet Sinfonia returns to the Symphony Hall in Birmingham for their annual Evening of Music and Dance.

Compered by Birmingham Royal Ballet company director David Bintley, led by principal conductor Paul Murphy and joined on stage by BRB dancers, this event is an extraordinary evening of beautiful music and stunning dance in one of the best concert halls in the world.

This year's programme will include danced excerpts from Don Quixote, La Fille mal gardée and The Sleeping Beauty, alongside Humperdinck's overture to Hansel and Gretel, Korngold's suite from the film

The Adventures of Robin Hood and Elgar's beautiful miniature, Sospiri. The programme also includes a pas de deux from Christopher Wheeldon's After The Rain, a company premiere for Birmingham Royal Ballet.

This performance will be particularly special because, after an incredible 18 year career with Birmingham Royal Ballet, principal dancer Iain Mackay will give his final performance. He is to dance the Adagio from Spartacus with Jenna Roberts.

One of Birmingham Royal Ballet's most valued and versatile dancers, Iain's ability to take on everything from classical princes to intense dramatic roles has seen him become a firm favourite with audiences at Birmingham Hippodrome and at the company's touring venues across the UK.

Beautiful start to blockbuster year

There is a blockbuster 2018 ahead at Birmingham Hippodrome, following the final performance of the big festive panto Cinderella on January 28.

It kicks off with Beautiful The Carole King Musical (January 31 to February 3), based on the life of one of America's finest songwriters. The West End hit is making a rapid return to the Hurst Street theatre following its success there last year. It stars Brontë Barbé, pictured, as Carole King.

Dance is always a priority at the Hippodrome and there is a real anticipation around the arrival of Matthew Bourne's radical reworking of Cinderella (Feb 6-10) in a London blitz context. Some may have seen this stylish ballet when it was screened by the BBC at Christmas.

Then Birmingham Royal Ballet return to their home theatre, for the first time since their festive treat The Nutcracker, to perform spectacular family favourite The Sleeping Beauty (Feb 13-24). The production harks back to the glory days of Imperial Russian ballet with a score by Tchaikovsky and choreography by Marius Petipa.

February promises to be a funny month with lots of top one-nighter comedy, not least Luisa Omielan's Dead Funny Birmingham's Big Comedy Gala (Feb 28). Confirmed guests include Sara Pascoe, Nish Kumar, Tom Allen, Suzi Ruffell and Ellie Taylor. All proceeds go to Helena's Hospice Foundation.

Other laughter makers at the Hippodrome include Sean Lock (Feb 27), Dara O'Briain for three nights from March 1 and Jon Richardson on March 10.

Opera takes centre stage when Welsh National Opera visit with La Forza del Destino (March 6), Don Giovanni (Mar 7) and Tosca (Mar 8).

Shiamak Datar, one of the most sought-after choreographers in Bollywood, brings the vibrant Spirit of India with 250 dancers to the Hippodrome on March 11.

It will be a case of Don't Cry For Me Argentina when popular musical Evita returns (Mar 20-24) and riotous farce with The Play That Goes Wrong (Mar 27-31).

The first of the mega-shows arrives in April when evergreen West End and Broadway hit Wicked looks at the Oz story from a different angle, April 4 to 29. The summer's big show sees Roald Dahl, the RSC and Tim Minchin's talents combine for Matilda The Musical from July 3 to September 8.

Superska sounds start the weekend

ENERGETIC eight-piece band The Superskas bring mod and skinhead favourite sounds to the Robin 2 in Bilston tomorrow night (Friday). There is plenty for prog rock fans to enjoy at the Mount Pleasant venue with G2 Definitive Genesis on Saturday night, then Lifesigns perform tracks from new album Cardington on Sunday. New Jersey outfit the Billy Walton Band play on Wednesday and its jump 'n' jive outfit King Pleasure & The Biscuit Boys with The Miss Fortunes on Thursday.

Violin sensation plays Vivaldi masterpiece

Acclaimed violinist Joshua Bell will be performing Vivaldi's The Four Seasons at Symphony Hall, Birmingham, on Tuesday. Performing with the Academy of St Martin in the Fields, his concert will also include works by Beethoven and Edgar Meyer. Also at Symphony Hall, the world's famous brass band, Black Dyke Band, are in concert on Sunday afternoon and John Wilson conducts the CBSO for a Leonard Bernstein programme on Wednesday.

When the convict is released, the driver tries to convince him to give up his life of crime for his family's sake, but when they work together on a robbery, they end up drawn into a conflict with the Mafia. Crime drama, with Ryan Gosling, Carey Mulligan and Bryan Cranston. (2011)

Honouring the best of the best in the TV world

We love the Oscars, Golden Globes and Emmys - the Baftas aren't half bad either.

But our favourite film or TV-related gong-giving ceremony of all has to be The National Television Awards.

Why? The answer is simple: because every award is voted for by the people who really count - those of us who tune in at home.

Forget the critics or the contributors' fellow cast and crew members, it's the folk who watch the shows whose opinions count the most, because without them, there would be no programmes to start off with.

So if your favourite doesn't bag a trophy on the night, you only have yourself to blame for not backing them.

Many critics believe we're in a golden age of TV, and it's hard to disagree with them. The rise and rise of on demand services means that big guns such as the BBC, ITV, Channel 4 and Sky have had to raise their games to compete with Netflix and Amazon.

As a result, we've seen some cracking shows this year, from the final instalment of Broadchurch to a fond farewell to Peter Capaldi's tenure in Doctor Who, not to mention The Great British Bake Off's move to Channel 4.

Many believed that the latter would be a flop after original hosts Mel Giedroyc and Sue Perkins and judge Mary Berry quit. However, their replacements - Sandi Toksvig, Noel Fielding and Prue Leith - have more than filled their shoes and, if anything, the programme is better than ever.

Bake Off is in the running for the Challenge Show title, and if it doesn't beat Love Island, MasterChef and I'm a Celebrity... Get Me Out of Here! we'll eat our hats, providing they're covered in spun sugar and don't have soggy bottoms, of course.

The biggest change in the proceedings comes with the creation of a Crime Drama category to reflect just how many such shows are produced these days - as well as their overwhelming popularity.

Broadchurch, Line of Duty, Little Boy Blue and Sherlock are all in the running, but it's left the good, old-fashioned Drama section a little light on quality, with Call the Midwife, Casualty, Doctor Foster, Game of Thrones and Liar as the nominees.

All are decent enough, but with less to choose from it's what's missing that is baffling - where are Taboo, The Moorside and Three Girls, for starters?

But then that can often be the joy of such ceremonies - the arguing about who or what is missing, and who or what should have been the winner; it's the kind of debate between friends that can last a very long time indeed.

Phillip Schofield, Tom Hardy, Sheridan Smith, David Tennant, Peter Kay's Car Share, Gogglebox, Loose Women and Coronation Street are also up for awards on the night.

Another change involves renaming one trophy The Bruce Forsyth Entertainment Award after the legendary performer.

BEST OF THE REST

MONDAY

Surgeons: At the Edge of Life BBC2, 9pm

Although not for the squeamish, let alone those who have a procedure planned in the next few months, this documentary series has been riveting. It concludes with an episode entitled The Pioneers, which focuses on some of the clinical trials being carried out at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital Birmingham. Cameras track three trials at the vanguard of medicine, on donor livers, implantable microphones and prostate cancer, while viewers learn what it's like to take part in this kind of experimental treatment - for both surgeons and patients. With specialist fixed-rig cameras, head-cams and microscope feeds, we once more learn more about the miracles that take place on Britain's operating tables every single day. Once again, it proves that for sheer drama, these particular theatres take some beating.

TUESDAY

Love and Hate Crime BBC1, 10.45pm

This fascinating series originated on BBC3 and offers an insight into some of the hate crimes committed in the US every year. Last week focused on a young man who murdered his lover in a fit of rage after discovering she was transgender. This time the focus is on the murder of James Anderson, a black man who was mowed down by a gang of white youths travelling in a truck; an incident described as a modern-day lynching by the media. Here, cameras follow the story of 18-year-old Sarah Graves, who was in the vehicle, as she faces trial. There's also an insight into how what has happened has impacted on her family and how she became involved with a racist group, as well as a look at the case from the perspective of the police and Anderson's loved ones.

WEDNESDAY

Stealing Van Gogh BBC2, 9pm

Andrew Graham-Dixon is currently appearing on BBC Four every Tuesday evening as presenter of Art, Passion & Power: The Story of the Royal Collection, but he's also found the time to front this fascinating documentary. It takes an in-depth look at the true story behind the greatest art heist of the 21st century to date, which involved the theft of two valuable paintings from the Van Gogh Museum in Amsterdam in December 2002; they were eventually recovered in Naples more than a decade after the crime took place. Graham-Dixon's exploration takes him across Europe where he meets the detectives involved in cracking the case, as well as art experts and prosecutors who reveal exactly what happened to the masterpieces.

THURSDAY

Big Cats BBC1, 8pm

The final documentary focuses on the scientists who are studying wild cats in more detail than ever before - and the ground-breaking discoveries they are making. Professor Alan Wilson has been researching the cheetah, using hi-tech collars to rewrite what is understood about the fastest animal on land - revealing that its speed is not its greatest weapon. There is also a look at cat conservation, with stories including that of the Iberian lynx. Just five years ago this was considered the rarest cat on the planet. Now, thanks to a captive breeding programme, numbers are increasing in the wild. Last in the series.

Death in Paradise BBC1, 9pm

DI Mooney and the team become embroiled in the mysterious world of faith healing when a blind woman dies while being treated by renowned healer Steadman King. When it turns out the victim was poisoned, all eyes turn to Steadman and his cup of holy water. But how could the prime suspect have carried out the deed in front of an audience without anyone noticing? Meanwhile, JP is put through his paces when Pico the police dog joins the team on a week-long trial, and Florence tries to recreate some of Jack's home comforts.

FRIDAY Costa Del Celebrity Channel 5, 8pm

Anne Diamond, Nick Owen, Ainsley Harriott, Vicki Michelle and Christine Hamilton end their Spanish adventure at a family-run vineyard during the grape harvest. Last in the series.

Hola! Mi casa es su Casa Ruiz

THE floor runs south like ley lines squiggling their way to the Antarctic. A rickety old building, off Bridgnorth's High Street, that was probably built around the time that witches were tied to chairs and soaked in rivers, houses the town's delightfully friendly tapas bar.

It's stood the test of time. Casa Ruiz has seen off young pretenders and remains a perennial favourite among Bridgnorth's gourmandising cognoscenti. It's a delightful little space: all low ceilings, mind-your-head-on-the-staircase and frilly little drapes that cover the windows as though you're in some seedy, backstreet Bilbao diner. All it needs is a pair of Vincent-and-Flavia lookalikes to dance a steamy Argentine tango and it would score 10-10 for authenticity.

Good tapas is very much about the atmosphere and the vibes were bang on when my friend and I visited Casa Ruiz for a midweek supper.

GENEROUS

Three tables were full of chat and bonhomie. Friends were telling tall stories as patatas bravas and generous glasses of Spanish red were ferried to the table. It was a back-slapping, high-fivin', belly-laughing, good-time.

The restaurant manager was fantastic. Though she'd got a good crowd in, the odds were stacked against her. An ordering issue meant half of the menus on the item – including most of the ones that we were going to choose – were off the menu. In such circumstances, you'd reasonably imagine the scores on the doors would start to plummet from a solid eight to a miserable four.

She came to our table apologising profusely and told us that it was down to an unexpectedly busy start to the week. And so we ate food that we didn't expect to eat: pulled chicken and chorizo tacos instead of shells stuffed with pork and beef, mushrooms instead of little baby squid, you know the drill. The food was decent. It wasn't great. It wasn't stand out, like the service. But it was okay.

Test of time – the Casa Ruiz in Bridgnorth

Spanish surprise – chicken and chorizo tacos

I started with jamon iberico, cured ham produced in Spain from pigs that feasted on acorns. The ham was tender and sweet. Deep fried battered balls of cheese, ham and chorizo were less impressive.

My tacos were reasonable. The Great Bridgnorth Beef and Pork Famine of 2017 – which is ironic, given that Casa Ruiz is above a butcher's shop. . . where's common sense and a quick visit to the shops when you need it? – meant a new version was making its debut. The chef had knocked up a pulled chicken and chorizo stew with a few beans and veg, then stuffed them into some of El Paso's finest shells. Pots of salsa and cheese with a few strategically placed corn chips were served alongside it. It was fine, the sort of thing people whip up at home.

My friend's plan to order a smorgasbord of fish dishes was scuppered by The Great Bridgnorth Fish Famine of 2017 – yeah, yeah, yeah, which is odd because. . . – but she soldiered on. Prawns were plump like a fat man's fingers, mushrooms were earthy like an autumn wood and her bowl of patatas bravas was towering. We stayed for pud. A baked strawberry cheesecake was light, fruity and sweet. And an almond tart was equally delicious.

Great service elevates Casa Ruiz's score from a six to an eight – the restaurant manager was THAT good. When service is that warm and sincere, it doesn't really matter if the kitchen and the delivery man can't quite get it together.

Aladdin

Already a smash-hit on Broadway, this fantastic show follows the story of a rakish street urchin-turned-handsome-prince in Disney's lavish musical production of Aladdin, now at the Prince Edward Theatre.

Directed and choreographed by Casey Nicholaw (The Book of Mormon), Aladdin the Musical gives you the catchy songs from the classic Disney film plus new material by Alan Menken (Beauty and the Beast) with lyrics by Howard Ashman (Beauty and the Beast) and Sir Tim Rice (The Lion King).

The Lion King

The smash-hit story of Simba the lion and his Serengeti journey from runaway to ruler of the plains has been a sell-out success ever since it opened on Broadway in 1997 and at London's Lyceum Theatre in 1999.

A theatre adaptation of a Disney classic, with music by Elton John and Tim Rice, a musical score by Hans Zimmer, arrangements by Lebo M and a plot loosely based on Hamlet, this multiple Tony and Olivier award-winning show has become the top-earning title in box office history, surpassing Lloyd Webber's Phantom of the Opera.

Peugeot 3008 bags best family car in UK awards

The Peugeot 3008 SUV has scooped the award for the Best Family Car in the UK Car of the Year Awards 2018, the 15th award it has won in the UK since the vehicle's launch.

The multi-award winning 3008 SUV impressed the judges with its sophisticated style, premium feel and practicality.

It was also described as a class-leading car and was highly praised for its "game-changing" dashboard design which forms part of the innovative Peugeot i-Cockpit®. The technology that makes up the Peugeot i-Cockpit® offers a more intuitive and engaging driving experience, with a compact multi-function steering wheel, 12.3" head-up digital instrument display and 8.0" capacitive touchscreen with Mirror Screen® functionality comprising of Android Auto, Apple CarPlay™ and Mirror Link®.

The award means that the Peugeot 3008 SUV is automatically shortlisted for the overall UK Car of the Year award, the winner of which will be announced on February 23.

The UK Car of the Year Award was established in 2014 and is voted for by a panel of 27 leading motoring journalists.

David Peel, managing director at Peugeot UK, said: "Winning the Best Family Car in the UK Car of the Year Awards is a fantastic achievement.

The 3008 is now shortlisted for the overall UK Car of the Year

In a particularly competitive sector, the 3008 SUV proved its suitability for families with its combination of robustness and elegance.

"This award adds to the collection of over 30 international awards that the 3008 SUV has won since it went on sale in 2017. Whilst the 3008 SUV has impressed many award panels, the UK Car of the Year Awards is voted for by some of the UK's top automotive journalists, making this accolade a massive achievement."

The 3008 SUV can be fully configured and ordered using Peugeot's industry leading 'Order Online' facility at www.peugeot.co.uk along with the rest of the Peugeot SUV range, including the award-winning new Peugeot 5008 SUV.

Styling draws inspiration from Kia's SUV models

Picanto line-up expands with the arrival of X-Line Edition

By James Parker

Following its debut at the 2017 Frankfurt Motor Show (IAA), the latest addition to the Picanto range, the all-new X-Line is now on sale. The 'X-Line' further broadens the appeal of Kia's city car, with styling that draws inspiration from the company's SUV models, including Stonic, Sportage and Sorento.

Prices start at £12,595 for the 'X-Line' equipped with the 1.25-litre petrol engine and five-speed manual gearbox, with a four-speed automatic transmission available for an additional £650. Affordability is one of the Picanto's key features, with CO2 emissions that are as low as 106g/km on the manual transmission, and a combined fuel economy figure of 61.4mpg.

The 'X-Line' variant introduces a series of rugged new design cues and is longer, wider and taller than conventional city cars, and has increased ground clearance. It makes no pretence at being a full-blown SUV – power is transmitted through the front wheels only – but has a more rugged look which will widen the audience of the all-new Picanto in a market in which the crossover is king.

Unique to the 'X-Line' model, the grille and fog lamp surrounds are finished with lime green highlights,

Twin exhaust outlets complete the muscular look while black cladding around the side sills and wheel arches enhances the visual effect of the raised ground clearance. The exterior door handles are finished in body colour and privacy glass is fitted to the rear windows and tailgate. Completing the more muscular look are twin exhaust outlets, 16-inch alloy wheels, a shark-fin antenna and projection headlights with LED daytime running lights and fog lamps.

The splashes of colour are carried over to the interior with lime green stitching for the flat-bottomed steering wheel, gear lever gaiter and armrests. The large 7.0-inch 'floating' touchscreen features DAB radio, as well as Bluetooth, Apple CarPlay™ and Android Auto™ for full smartphone integration. Other equipment highlights include unique grey faux leather upholstery, a central armrest, satin chrome interior door handles and stainless-steel pedals with rubber inserts, in addition to cruise control with speed limiter, automatic air conditioning and keyless entry.

The latest Picanto is the safest A-segment car Kia has ever made, featuring an Advanced High Strength Steel body construction and six standard airbags. Active safety features are also included, such as standard-fit Vehicle Stability Management with Electronic Stability Control, to ensure stability under braking and cornering. In addition, the 'X-Line' is fitted with Autonomous Emergency Braking as standard.

Torque Vectoring is also included, and is a further aid to handling stability. Using the anti-lock brake and ESC sensors, it detects when the car is drifting off its intended course in corners and gently brakes the inside rear wheel if the front of the car is running wide, or the outer rear wheel if the rear tyres are starting to slide outwards. Hill-start Assist Control prevents the car from rolling backwards when setting off on uphill gradients.

In line with market demand, the Picanto is available exclusively with a practical five-door bodystyle and is regularly one of the top five best-selling city cars. It has class-leading cabin space, with more leg- and head-room than all other rivals in the A-segment. Boot capacity is 255 litres – the most of any car in its class – with 60:40 split-folding rear seats, which can fold flat to increase capacity to 1,010 litres.

The 'X-Line' comes equipped with a powerful and refined 83bhp 1,248cc four-cylinder, 16-valve engine developing 122Nm of torque. A five-speed manual gearbox is standard, with a four-speed automatic transmission available as an option.

In line with every Kia, the Picanto 'X-Line' comes with a warrant of seven years or 100,000 miles, including labour, subject to terms and conditions. The warranty is fully transferable to the next owner if the car is sold before the time or mileage limit expires.

NOTICE TO READERS
Please be aware that when purchasing a puppy there are some simple guidelines you can follow to ensure that you are not purchasing from a Puppy Farmer:
1. Try to ensure you visit the puppy whilst it is still with its Mother.
2. Do not arrange to collect a puppy from any other location than that of the breeder.
3. Ensure that you are given any KC documentation, if pedigree. Whilst Midland News Association publications take great care to avoid publication of advertisements from Puppy Farmers we cannot accept any liability should readers purchase from this kind of establishment.

Regis was a popular player in the colours of Albion, Villa and Wolves in a glittering career that saw him lift the FA Cup and play for England

The Baggies so-called Three Degrees with the musical group in the 1970s

RIP Big Cyrille – football legend and a gentleman

TRIBUTES have continued to pour in from fans all over the world following the death of football legend Cyrille Regis.

The 59-year-old passed away on Sunday night of a heart attack.

Born on February 9, 1958, to Robert and Mathilde Regis in French Guiana, his father moved to Britain, with Regis and the rest of his family following a year later. They initially pitched up in the Portobello Road area before later moving to Stonebridge.

A talented sportsman, Regis impressed in football, cricket and athletics at Cardinal Hinsley School (Haresden) and was called up to the Borough of Brent Boys' football team. He was offered a trial by Chelsea, but was unable to attend due to injury.

Regis trained as an electrician – a trade he continued in until becoming a professional footballer – and played Sunday League football for Ryder Brent Valley and Oxford & Kilburn Boys.

He began to bang in the goals following a move to London amateur club Molesey in 1975/76 and when he repeated the feat at Hayes the following season, Albion came calling.

Important

The 19-year-old was spotted by Baggies chief scout Ronnie Allen and a deal was reached to buy Regis for £5,000 in May 1977, with another £5,000 once he reached 20 appearances. Laurie Cunningham had joined two months earlier, Brendon Batson would sign soon after – they would become three of the most important figures in the club's history and christened The Three Degrees by boss Ron Atkinson.

Allen took over from Johnny Giles as manager and handed the striker his debut in a League Cup tie on August 31, 1977 against Rotherham – and Regis scored twice in a 4-0 win. Three days later, he was on the scoresheet in a 2-1 league victory over Middlesbrough. Regis ended that first campaign with 10 goals in 34 league games – and six more in the FA Cup as Albion finished sixth and reached the semi-final, with Atkinson having replaced Allen in January 1978. In 1978/79 Albion finished third in the First Division and reached the quarter-finals of the UEFA Cup.

After 13 goals in 39 league appearances Regis was voted PFA Young Footballer of the Year. The Three “Losing him has turned my whole world upside down. It is a void that will never be filled.”

Degrees were broken up ahead of the 1979/80 season with Cunningham sold to Real Madrid. With Regis sidelined early on, he would only net eight league goals. Albion finished 10th and exited the cups early.

Fortunes improved in 1980/81 as Regis bagged 14 times in 38 league matches, lifting the Baggies to fourth and a return to the UEFA Cup. Regis' tally of 17 goals in 37 league matches was his best at Albion and he finished second in the Footballer of the Year vote behind Tottenham's Steve Perryman.

He also won the first of five England caps in a 4-0 win over Northern Ireland at Wembley, becoming the third black player to be capped by England after Viv Anderson and Cunningham.

Regis left The Hawthorns in 1984 with 112 goals in 302 games. His eight seasons in Baggies colours were followed by a further seven down the road at Coventry City, where he won the FA Cup in 1987.

Having netted 47 goals in 238 games for Coventry, Regis was reunited with Atkinson at Villa in 1991 – becoming Big Ron's first signing at Villa Park.

He netted on his debut again in a 3-2 success over Sheffield Wednesday and found the net 11 times that season as Villa finished seventh and reached the sixth round of the FA Cup. His minutes were limited the following season – particularly following the £2.3million arrival of Dean Saunders – and his only goal of the campaign would arrive in a 2-1 victory over Nottingham Forest in December 1992.

With his career winding down, he crossed the divide for the old gold and black of Wolves, later dropping through the divisions to play for Wycombe Wanderers and Chester City in Division Three before finally calling time in 1996. After his playing career ended Regis also awarded an honorary fellowship by the University of Wolverhampton in 2001 before becoming a Member of the Order of the British Empire (MBE) in 2008.

As well as working in a range of coaching roles, he became an accredited football agent – including for his nephew Jason Roberts – and continued charity work with wife Julia, including for WaterAid. His legacy continues to inspire footballers of all races today.

Regis leaves behind widow Julia, two children and three grandchildren. In a statement released by Albion, Julia Regis described the 59-year-old legend as her 'soulmate', a 'beautiful man' and 'a wonderful husband, father, grandfather, brother and uncle'.

She said: "Losing him has turned my whole world upside down. It is a void that will never be filled. He was a role model for so many because he always treated everyone he met with kindness and respect."

Albion chairman John Williams said: "Everyone will have their precious memories of him as a family man, as a crusader against bigotry – which can never be under-estimated – and as a man who threw considerable energy into a series of worthy causes."

Respected

"But for me, I will never forget Cyrille the footballer – a wonderful, wonderful player who had everything and who defenders of the time would have hated facing."

Geoff Snape, secretary of West Brom's Former Players Association said: "A legend, a word that is sometimes used too frivolously but in the case of Big C it was a word that summed him up, a really nice guy, respected by his colleagues."

Tearful Ally Robertson, a former team-mate and close friend, said: "I'm heartbroken. Cyrille is a true great. He was the ultimate gentleman. I cannot believe he has gone."

Steve Bull joined in the tributes, describing his former Wolves team-mate as "a man and a player I looked up to".

John Wile was captain of the trailblazing Albion side of the 70s and 80s that Regis was a part of. He said: "You wouldn't wish to meet a nicer person."

"He was just an absolute gentleman. It's a real sorry day."

Livermore won't face action over fan fracas

ALBION midfielder Jake Livermore will not face action from the FA after confronting a West Ham supporter who allegedly taunted him over the death of his infant son.

The 28-year-old England international has been reminded of his responsibility not to react to fans whatever the circumstances – though mainly for his own safety and that of innocent spectators.

Livermore became involved in an angry exchange with a supporter sitting just behind the away team's dugout at the London Stadium, after being substituted in the second half of the Baggies 2-1 loss to the Hammers on January 2.

Albion have claimed Livermore was provoked by a remark related to the death of his infant son, Jake Junior, in 2014.

West Ham have identified the fan and are currently investigating the matter. Having asked both clubs for their observations on the incident, the FA is understood to be happy with West Ham's handling of the case.

Right royal rumble as Duggan checks in

THE first-ever winner of the WWE Royal Rumble will be in the Black Country tomorrow night (Friday) ahead of the event's 30th anniversary.

American wrestling superstar 'Hacksaw' Jim Duggan will be in action at Darlaston Town Hall. He makes the trip across the pond to take top billing on a Pro Wrestling Live card staged by local promoter Matt Powell at the Victoria Road venue.

Duggan, from Glen Falls, New York, won the maiden Royal Rumble in 1988. He went on to become a WWE Hall of Famer and is still signed to the company on a Legends contract. The 63-year-old will dust off his wrestling boots, trusty 2 x 4 plank of wood and use his battle cries of 'Hooo' and 'USA' in the Black Country ring.

Tickets are available, with general admission £6.50, VIP ringside passes £12, a family of four, two adults and two children £22.

For more information, call 07404 279 880. Payment can be made on the doors, which open at 6.30pm for a 7.30pm start.

EFL Trophy on way to Wolverhampton

THE EFL Championship trophy that Wolves are currently on course to regain will be on show at a city pub next weekend.

Wolves stand top of the pile in the Championship and are on course to win the re-branded title for a second time, the last eight years ago in 2009.

Fans have the chance to see the trophy early when it arrives at the George Wallis, Victoria Street, on Saturday January 27.

Competition sponsors Sky Bet are taking the trophy on a whistle-stop tour and will be in the pub's upstairs function room from 1-3pm.

Selves and photographs with the silverware can be taken as a memento. Tables can be pre-booked, but no tickets are required and admission is free. Donations are welcome for a charity of the George Wallis' choice.

Pub mascot George the Wolf will be on hand to entertain visitors on an afternoon where Wolves are scheduled to play away.

There will be a raffle for football-themed prizes and the day's FA Cup games will be shown across the venue. Contact the pub on 01902 426892.

Running men look destined for relegation

THE writing appears to be on the wall for the men from Dudley Kingswinford Running Club after race three of four in the Birmingham & District Cross Country League at Cofton Park on Saturday. Already bottom of Division 2 they were hit with injury and illness meaning only nine athletes were able to start the race over three sweeping, rolling, two-mile laps of south Birmingham parkland. Steve Holdcroft was first back for the club in a very impressive 38th place in 37.08, Stuart Perkins was 63rd in 38.10, Darran Bishop finished in 129th in 40.43, Dave Norman was 158th in 42.03, Mark Homer was 193rd in 43.33 and Pete Hood competed the A team scorers in 213th in 45.02. Sergei Ljubovnikov finished in 47.12 to take 234th place, Dave Hickman was 236th in 47.16 and Andy Weaver was 256th in 49.29.

With one race remaining the male section of the blue hoops are rooted at the bottom of the table and look destined to return to the Third Division.

The female section were also at Cofton Park covering two laps of the same course and four miles in total in the Second Division of the Midland Women's League. Helen Tromans was first back in 44th place, Jacqui Elson-Whittaker was 107th in 36.27, Jane Campbell was 126th in 38.25, Jan Burbie, Kimberley Ball and Susan Barley went round together finishing in 153rd in 42.03, 154th in 42.23 and 156th in 42.28 respectively, Donna Proffitt was 166th in 43.47 and Farah Hunter-Coley was 180th in 46.18.

Twenty four hours later, former DK member Matt Biggs won the rescheduled Sneyd Christmas Pudding 10, a 10-mile two-lap race where all finishers are presented with a festive pudding. Biggs, now with Birchfield Harriers, goes from strength to strength in the all black of the Birmingham club, crossing the line in 55:43.

Ex-Baggie and old Glassboys coach dies

FORMER Albion player Archie Styles – a stalwart of the Baggies' Former Players Association – has died at the age of 78.

Styles, who was born in Smethwick on October 29, 1939, joined Albion from Smethwick Boys in 1956.

He went on to make one first-team appearance before leaving for Wrexham in 1960 and played for several non-league clubs – including Stourbridge, where he was also a coach.

A statement on the Former Players Association website read: "He said that perhaps the most enjoyable time both socially and in football terms was the times he played for the All Stars Charity side alongside Stan Jones, Bobby Hope and many more."

Styles leaves son Dean, daughter Kerry, grandchildren Tom, Shannon, Georgia, Laura and Kyle, plus four great grandchildren.

Stour secure the double over Dale

Ben Tibbetts on the run for Stour

Stourbridge 29 Wharfedale 18
STOURBRIDGE secured the double over their Yorkshire opponents but Dale's performance belied their standing at the opposite end of the table.

It took just two minutes for the visitors to put points on the board through Tom Mann, converted by Tom Barrett, who on 15 minutes added a penalty.

Nick Murphy's try was converted by Robbie Forbes for Stour's first score and it was 7-10 at the break.

Four minutes into the second half, Nick David dotted down to give Stour the lead, until Barrett kicked a drop goal. Jack Lea edged Stour ahead with a try which Forbes converted.

The bonus was banked when Josh Trinham intercepted and sprinted clear, with David adding the extras. Oliver Cicognini touched down for Dale but Barrett's conversion missed and David had the last word with a penalty.

Stourbridge Lions felt a sense of injustice as they lost out 21-19 to Melbourne in the 53rd minute of the second half.

After outscoring Melbourne on tries, a single point was Lions' only reward.

Sam Wilson scored two tries and Alex Jones one. Two were converted.

TROPHY WOE – THEN CUP JOY

STOURBRIDGE made up for their FA Trophy disappointment by reaching the quarter-finals of the Birmingham Senior Cup.

The Glassboys overcame a youthful Wolves side 2-1 at Amblecote on Monday night.

It came after hopes of reaching the Trophy last 16 were dashed by an injury-time winner from Billericay Town sub Billy Bricknell on Saturday. Aaron Forde and Jack Duggan scored for Stourbridge on Monday night with Jose Nuno Xavier pulling one back before Wolves' sub Jordan Allan missed an injury time spot-kick that could have forced a penalty shoot-out.

A minutes' silence was held before the game for Cyrille Regis, who played for Wolves and was a close friend of Glassboys boss Gary Hackett.

Forde's volley flew past Wolves keeper Jon Platt to give Glassboys the lead on 16 minutes, doubled two minutes later by Duggan's header from a Tom Tonks corner. The deficit was halved on half-time.

Tripped

The penalty came when Platt left his area to join the attack and was tripped. Allan saw his shot well saved by Matt Gould and Stourbridge will now travel to Coleshill in the last eight.

Meanwhile, the Glassboys were knocked out of the FA Trophy despite coming back from a goal down to lead 2-1 on Saturday.

The big-spending Essex outfit had most of the first half play and led 1-0 through top scorer Jake Robinson.

Leon Broadhurst headed home a 47th minute equaliser and three minutes later, the travelling Stourbridge fans were in ecstasy when Tom Tonks' cross was headed in by Stuart Pierpoint to seemingly turn the game round.

But Ricky Modeste equalised on 67 minutes and in injury time Stourbridge goalkeeper Matt Gould failed to get anything on a Sam Feering corner and Bricknell netted from close range.

Champions beaten in season's opener

THE hopeful wielding of rusty bats in the general direction of a round red object was again heard at Kinver High Sports Hall as the Northern division of the WCB Indoor Cricket League began the 2018 campaign.

A full complement of clubs are taking part this year and the first of two low-scoring matches saw the county champions Hagley lose their first game in more than a year, by 18 runs to Enville. Chasing the Enville total of 93-3, Hagley fell short at just 75-5.

In the other game, Oldswinford skittled out Pedmore for just 69 and then racked up the winning total for the loss of two wickets, helped by the bowling of 25 wides from the Pedmore attack.

Pedmore's innings got off to a disastrous start, losing three wickets in the same number of overs for just 22.

Oldswinford needed four runs in the last over and just scraped home on the last ball.

Third home defeat in a row for Yeltz

Halesowen Town 0 Nantwich Town 1
HALESOWEN slumped to a third successive home defeat with a laboured performance after Nantwich's Joe Mwasele hit an early winner.

Exodus Geohaghton's 15th minute long throw-in was almost touched in by Spencer Weir-Daley on his Halesowen debut. But the Dabbers broke straight up field with a long clearance down the middle and the Yeltz were caught standing as Mwasele outpaced the central defence to hammer past Dan Platt in the 16th minute.

Halesowen created little in the first half after that, although Jack Kelly hit a 22nd minute free-kick straight at visiting on-loan Blackpool goalkeeper Myles Boney.

Late in the first half Mwasele strolled straight through the middle again but his 20 yard shot was parried by Platt with David Forbes unable to keep the rebound down.

At the start of the second period Enock Ekongo drove past the Nantwich post from 25 yards and Kevin Monteiro volleyed wide. Home goalkeeper Platt saved a couple of attempts from Matt Bell and Harry Clayton fired over after a neat Nantwich move.

Nantwich were happy to play out the game without too much trouble, although Kelly's 86th minute free-kick was turned away and the resulting corner was scrambled clear. Platt saved from Nantwich substitute Stephen Jones in the final minute of added time.

Kick-off for new five-a-side league

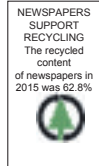

A NEW five-a-side football league is to kick off in Stourbridge – after research showed playing the sport can help middle aged men avoid heart attacks.

A study conducted in part by Exeter University found men who played football saw their blood pressure levels drop, were at 90 per cent of their heart's maximum rate for longer and increased their resting heart rate. The competition starts at Crystal Leisure Centre on Sunday. It is open to over-16s but 5aside.co.uk wants to encourage others who may have hung up their boots years ago.
